Kremlin's Ax Falls On Top Aide To Beria

May Signal Purge Of Former Police Boss' Collaborators

LONDON, July 15 (AP)—The Soviet ax fell on one of Lawrenty P. Beria's top lieutenants today in a drastic shakeup in his home republic of Georgia that may signal the beginning of a nationwide purge of the ousted police chief's closest henchmen.

Moscow radio announced Vladimir G. Dekanozov, minister of internal security in Georgia, had been thrown out of the Georgian Communist party. Dekanozov, who had been a member of the Georgia party's Central Committee, presumably also was fired from his governmental security job in Georgia, although this was not specifically stated. It was unlikely, however, he would hold a ministerial post after his expulsion from the party.

Others Presumably Fired

Along with Dekanozov, a half dozen other friends of his were mentioned and presumably they were being fired too in a thoroughgoing purge of Beria followers from the top party posts in the Georgia republic.

The action was taken at a special joint session of the Georgian party's Central Committee and the Party Committee for Tiflis, the capital of Georgia.

Initial monitoring reports of the broadcast said Dekanozov had been fired from his government post. But these later were amended to refer only to his expulsion from the party.

Dekanozov was a pre-war ambassador to Nazi Germany and a former deputy foreign minister. He had been Beria's No. 1 man in Georgia, the home state of Joseph Stalin.

Held Job Three Months

Georgia's Premier, B. M. Bakhradze, was quoted as accusing Beria of "appointing his friends and followers to high places in the Georgian Soviet Socialist Republic."

Dekanozov took his job as chief of the republic's security forces only three months ago. Moscow announced at the time he was appointed that his predecessor, a man named Rukhadze, had been arrested on charges of persecuting innocent workers and plotting to arouse dissatisfaction among the Soviet people.

Among those purged with Rukhadze was a former secretary of the party's Central Committee in Georgia, A. I. Mgeladze.

Using his sensitive fingers as a substitute for his sightless eyes, little Byron "Bikey" Smith, 8, Bloomington, Ind., reads the lettering on the vice president's seal as he sits on Richard Nixon's lap in the latter's Washington office. West Formally Invites Russia To Fall Meeting

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France, in a swift followup to their 3-power strategy talks, today formally invited Russia's foreign minister to a new East-West cold war conference.

The three Western governments sent almost identically worded notes to Russian Embassies in Washington, London and Paris proposing the 4-power meeting be held in late September.

The invitations called on Russia to discuss two critical European problems: Uniting divided Germany by free elections and an Austrian peace settlement which would end Russian and Western occupation of that country.

West Loses No Time

In sending the written invitations less than 12 hours after the end of their foreign ministers' conference here, the Big Three countries obviously were taking no chances on a possible Russian propaganda turndown even before they acted.

At the windup of their five day conference yesterday, Secretary of State Dulles; Lord Salisbury, the British acting foreign secretary; and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault jointly announced they would propose such a meeting to Russia for early autumn.

Cooperation Is Urged

At the same time the three foreign policy chiefs appealed to Moscow publicly to "contribute to a lasting peace" by approaching the German-Austrian problem in a spirit of cooperation.

A top rank American spokesman said the Western Powers had no idea whether Russia would agree to the proposed foreign ministers' conference.

The meeting apparently ruled out any prospect President Eisenhower would agree in the near future to meet with Russia's Premier Malenkov and British and French leaders to discuss an overall cold war settlement.

Justice Chief Purged By East German Reds

BERLIN, July 15 (AP)—Communist East Germany purged its justice minister, Max Fechner, today and appointed a woman judge, "Red Hilde" Benjamin, to take his place.

Premier Otto Grotewohl said Fechner, 60, was fired for "activity hostile to the republic," but did not specify what this activity was. He apparently has been chosen as a scapegoat for the anti-government riots which began June 17.

Fechner's fall was made public just six days after Moscow announced that Soviet Secret Police Chief Lavrenty P. Beria had been stripped of high office and set down for trial as a traitor.

Fechner May Face Trial

The same fate apparently awaits Fechner. The East German Red minister was the first satellite politician to get the ax in what is expected to be a widespread purge in the wake of Beria's arrest. Fechner's son was reported arrested earlier today on undisclosed charges.

Fechner was last in the news July 5 when he disclosed that 50,000 Germans had been arrested for taking part in the uprisings.

He had been noted since appointment to his job in 1949 as a vigorous anti-American and leader of the campaign to blame the regime's troubles on "American saboteurs."

"Red Hilde" On Warpath

But his successor, "Red Hilde," has been even more zealous.

Mrs. Benjamin went on the warpath last year and the scalps began piling up. Day after day, broken men were hauled before the bench where she sat as judge of the State Supreme Court. They were told what their alleged crime was, given virtually no chance of defense and sent off to long prison terms.

Her swarthy face, flashing black eyes and vitriolic tongue were a dynamic part of the Soviet zone scene. Next to party boss Walter Ulbricht she has been the most feared person in East Germany.

Polio With Unusual Characteristics Hits Mental Institution

ROCKVILLE, Md., July 15 (AP)—The Montgomery County Health Department today reported an outbreak of polio with "unusual characteristics" among attendants at a private sanitarium for the mentally ill here.

Twelve cases have developed among a staff of 200 persons at Chesnut Lodge Sanitarium since July 1. Only one of the 12 had severe paralysis, and made an unusually rapid recovery.

Profits Tax Bill Is Sent To Ike

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Heeding pleas that amendments might cause further delays, the Senate voted a straight six-month extension of the excess profits tax today and sent the long-disputed tax measure to President Eisenhower.

Action came by voice vote after a 52-34 vote defeated the only amendment formally offered. That proposal would have exempted firms with net income of $100,000 or less. The present exemption limit is $25,000.

Senate leaders emphasized that any amendment in the House-approved measure, however worthy, would force the bill into a House-Senate Conference Committee and require another vote of approval in the House.

U. S. Closes Consulate

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The United States today closed down the American consulate at Gibraltar, a diplomatic outpost which has served overseas for 159 years.

The State Department, in announcing the move, said it was "because of the need for greater economy in the overseas operations of this government."

Blindness Doesn't Prevent Sightseeing Tour Of Capital

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The sightseeing buses lined up, and the tourists filed in, as they do day after day in Washington.

But today it was a trifle different. Some of them had their dogs with them, some had canes, others took the arms of friends who were serving as guides.

And the delegates to the convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind—two-thirds of whom can't see—were away on a sightseeing tour of the White House.

Tagging along, your correspondent fell in with a couple of late starters, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rosenbom of Chicago.

The White House, it turned out, was just one more stop in a busy schedule for the Rosenboms, who already had been to the Smithsonian Institution, Mt. Vernon, Arlington and had taken a moonlight cruise on the Potomac.

Rosenbom can see a little. Well enough to act as a guide but not well enough to read. Mrs. Rosenbom can scarcely see at all, "not well enough to recognize people."

But they both keep busy. Mrs. Rosenbom teaches the blind in Chicago, and Rosenbom said he works in an assembly plant.

Even a person with 20-20 vision wouldn't have got much out of today's trip through the White House, which was taken at a brisk trot.

But the Rosenboms seemed to enjoy everything pointed out to them. And when they came to the Oval Room, which includes several shelves of books, they joined in the laughter when some joker asked loudly:

"Have these books been cleared by Sen. McCarthy?"

Stray Dogs Eat Well

DETROIT, July 15 (AP)—Stray dogs will eat well in Detroit for the next year. The City Council today appropriated $1,800 for 25,000 pounds of dog food for canine wanderers who are lodged in the municipal dog pound.

Margaret's Reputed Fiance Begins 'Exile'

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 15 (AP)—Capt. Peter Townsend, the man Princess Margaret of Britain is reported to love, bounced into Brussels in a luggage-laden little English Ford today to take up his duties as air attache at the British Embassy.

He arrived from London just two days before Margaret was scheduled to return there from an African tour.

The transfer of Townsend, a 38-year-old pilot-hero of the Battle of Britain who has divorced his wife, from Queen Elizabeth's court was widely regarded as a government move to separate him from the pretty 22-year-old princess. British papers said it had "the ring of a Victorian melodrama."

De Gasperi Completes New Italian Cabinet

ROME, Italy, July 15 (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi completed a new Cabinet today composed entirely of his own pro-Western Christian Democratic party members.

The 72-year-old statesman, who reluctantly took the job of forming his eighth consecutive government after the recent elections, presented the radically reshaped list to Italy's President Luigi Einaudi, who immediately approved it.

Truce Delegates Meet In Showdown Session

Robertson Says Peace Up To Reds

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Walter S. Robertson returned from his Korean mission today to report that President Syngman Rhee has fallen in line with the United Nations forces and the question of a truce is now squarely up to the Reds.

Robertson, an assistant secretary of state who went to Rhee as President Eisenhower's personal envoy, called at the White House within an hour and a half after his plane touched down at the National Airport.

After a 40-minute conference with the President, Robertson told reporters Rhee has not changed his objections to an armistice in Korea at this time "but has agreed to collaborate with us" in an effort to achieve unification of the country by peaceful means.

Could Sign In Good Faith

"We can go ahead and sign an armistice in good faith at any time," he said, indicating that his two weeks of negotiations with the South Korean leader have created a situation in which the fighting could stop if the Communists sincerely want a truce.

An authoritative source at Panmunjom said "there is a very distinct possibility of another break down" in the truce talks. There will be a showdown at a secret session tomorrow, this source predicted.

There were indications that the stumbling block would be Red demands for the recapture of some 27,000 prisoners of war released by Rhee last month and for ironclad guarantees from the U. N. that South Korea will honor a truce.

Dulles Meets Robertson

Robertson was met at the airport here by Secretary of State Dulles, who told a circle of newsmen that the banker-diplomat from Richmond, Va., had done a splendid job in Korea and "made it possible for us to have an armistice."

Later the secretary qualified his statement by adding that an armistice would be possible providing the Reds agreed to it.

He declined to answer directly a question as to whether Rhee had promised not to carry on the fight alone if a truce is reached.

Talks May Come Out Of Secrecy

PANMUNJOM, Thurs., July 16 (AP) — U. N. Command and Communist Truce negotiators met less than a half hour today and recessed until Saturday, July 18, at 2 p.m. (midnight Friday EST).

SEOUL, Thursday, July 16 (AP) — U. N. Commander Gen. Mark Clark arrived in Korea today from his Tokyo headquarters as truce talks neared a crisis at Panmunjom and immediately accused the Communists of violating secrecy of the armistice negotiations.

Clark told newsmen who met him at an airport that the Communist radio report yesterday of an American "walkout" from the talks had "violated the executive nature of the truce sessions."

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, July 16 (AP)—The U. N. truce team holds a possible showdown session today with the Reds who reportedly already have been told it is time to sign the armistice or call off the talks.

A well-informed source said Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief U. N. truce delegate, laid it on the line at yesterday's 21-minute meeting.

The source said today's session "might make or break the talks."

Secrecy May Be Dropped

Peiping's Red radio said that Harrison abruptly ended Wednesday's parley without asking if the Reds concurred and "walked out of the meeting." North Korea's Pyongyang radio said Harrison "arbitrarily broke up the truce talks Tuesday and Wednesday."

Commenting on the present status of the truce sessions, the U. N. source said:

"This is a showdown. There is a very distinct possibility the talks may come out of secrecy."

Rhee Upset Agreement

Official secrecy has been clamped on the talks for two months, broken only by the announcement that the two sides signed on June 8 an agreement for handling more than 47,000 anti-Red prisoners balking at a return to Communist rule.

South Korean President Syngman Rhee upset that agreement June 18—on the verge of a truce signing—with orders which freed more than 27,000 anti-Red North Korean prisoners.

The Reds angrily broke off the talks and President Eisenhower's special envoy, Walter S. Robertson, hurried to Seoul in an effort to get Rhee back in line.

House Cuts Ike's Budget Request For "Voice" 32%

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—House Republicans with a little Democratic help cut 32 per cent today from President Eisenhower's "austerity budget" request for the Voice of America.

The Voice is a major activity of the State Department's international information and educational program to counter Soviet propaganda abroad.

Bills Sent To Senate

Its financing was provided in a $168,155,584 omnibus appropriation bill which the House passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate.

Eisenhower had requested $87,900,000 to operate the program during the fiscal year ending next June 30. Former President Truman wanted $114,515,800.

The Eisenhower estimate was represented to the Appropriations Committee as an "austerity budget." The committee, however, cut it to 60 millions and the House sustained that action.

Rooney's Move Fails

Democrats led by Rep. Rooney of New York tried to add 20 millions to the Voice budget, giving it 80 millions. Revised State Department figures, Rooney said, indicated that was the bare minimum if the program was to be operated effectively.

Rooney's amendment to increase the allotment lost by a 244-154 rollcall vote, with 177 Republicans and 67 Democrats opposing it and 129 Democrats, 24 Republicans and 1 Independent supporting it.

Ike Asks Funds To Aid Stockmen

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Agriculture Department moved swiftly today to make emergency loans available to farmers and stockmen, and President Eisenhower asked Congress for 150 million dollars to finance the program.

Even before the new money is provided, the department will be able to draw on some 16 millions it already has available. A spokesman said local committees should be set up and ready to pass on loan applications within a week or 10 days.

The President, who only yesterday signed the legislation authorizing the emergency credit, made his request for the appropriation in a letter to House Speaker Martin (R-Mass). The amount was about what Congress was told would be needed when it voted to set up the program.

First priority was being given to the drought-stricken Southwest, where lack of rain has created shortages of feed and forced heavy marketing of cattle.

Missing Child's Body Found In Wilderness

MINAKI, Ont., July 15 (AP)—A 10-day search in the Northwestern Ontario wilderness for a little Winnipeg girl ended today when the child's body was found near Wade, Ont.

Geraldine Huggan, 5, wandered from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jared Huggan, at a summer cottage near Wade July 5. Boats and planes including a helicopter, were called in to assist ground search parties who combed the insect-infested swampy bush. Geraldine's body was found 2½ miles from Wade by Harry Hawes, a Kenora, Ont., prospector.

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Department of Labor today notified the Office of Defense Mobilization that Martinsburg, W. Va., no longer is rated a "surplus labor area" and hence does not qualify for preference in the award of government contracts.

School Board Sued For Banning Negroes

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP) — The Baltimore School Board was sued in Federal Court today by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in its attempt to force admission of 23 Negro girls into Western High School next September.

Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut gave the board until Aug. 1 to show cause why the girls should not be admitted.

Crewmen Bail Out Before Big Plane Plunges Into Sea

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 15 (AP)—A huge four-engine flying boat carrying a crew of nine crashed into the ocean west of San Diego today. All crew members parachuted to the water and were rescued.

Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp., which built the 64-ton craft for the Navy, said the plane was flying at about 10,000 feet when it plunged to the water. It sank soon after.

Cause of the crash was not known. A Convair spokesman said no explosion nor fire occurred.

Coast Guard air-sea rescue planes and surface craft were dispatched to the crash scene, about six miles west of San Diego.

Unverified Charges Draw Information Chief's Fire

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Dr. Robert L. Johnson, outgoing chief of the State Department's information service, said today some of America's most effective anti-Red programs are being damaged by "unsupported charges that they are somehow soft on communism."

Johnson, without naming his target, blamed "some of those who are in the forefront of the fight against communism."

He spoke out after Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) sidetracked one phase of his Senate investigations subcommittee inquiry into the kind of books on the shelves of the State Department's overseas libraries.

Notified by McCarthy that he need not testify today as scheduled, Johnson proceeded to disclose what he termed the full story of the libraries. He also made public a list of 35 authors whose works were blacklisted during and before the "book purge" row of the past four months.

"One of the great dangers I have sensed during my term of office is that many of our most effective programs in fighting communism are being impaired by unsupported charges that they are somehow soft on communism," Johnson said in an accompanying statement.

"I do not say that there is a deliberate effort to kill or cripple these anti-Communist programs through the simple device of making such charges. I merely point out that it is one of the tragic ironies of our time that some of those who are in the forefront of the fight against communism are among those who are damaging the action programs that do battle against it."

McCarthy, asked for comment on Johnson's remarks, said "I wouldn't know who he is referring to. He has praised our work right along and said how constructive it has been."

ROKs Regain Mile Of Ground Lost To Reds

Three Divisions, Led By Allied Warplanes, Hit New Chinese Line

SEOUL, Thursday, July 16 (AP)—Three South Korean divisions rolled forward in a counterattack on the East-Central Front today and, at first reports, had gained one mile in a push to retake ground lost to Reds early this week.

Squadrons of 5th Air Force planes roared out, too, for the first time in three days, blasting enemy positions along the sector.

The South Korean counterattackers numbered about 45,000 men.

Tanks roared along the highways beside the columns of ROK troops heading north. Allied heavy artillery pounded roads ahead of the troops.

South Korean Gen. Sun Yup Paik reported the infantrymen were "making good progress."

"I feel now that the battle has settled down to the point where we can go ahead and attack and drive the Chinese back," he added.

ROKs Hit West Of Pukhan

The ROKs were hitting northwest of the Pukhan River where the Chinese made their greatest gains Monday night and Tuesday morning in the onset of the Reds' greatest offensive in two years.

The Red gains came along a 20-mile wide front between Kumhwa and the Pukhan River on the Kumsong Bulge of the East-Central Front. The Red smash had knocked the South Korean back several miles, just how many was withheld by censorship.

Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. commander, arrived in Seoul as the ROK counterattack got under way.

Clark told newsmen, "The front situation appears to be in hand from reports I have received." But he added he would go to the front to see for himself.

He said he also would confer with 8th Army Commander Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor during his two-day stay in Korea.

Planes Destroy Bridge

Squadrons of thundering Allied jet fighter-bombers flew against the Reds trying feverishly to dig in on their newly won positions on the Kumsong Bulge.

The fighter-bombers opened their attack at dawn by knocking out the main bridge on the Kumsong River just west of its junction with the Pukhan.

The bridge had been mined but ROK troops failed to blow it up in their hurried withdrawal Tuesday.

The scream of the jets was a welcome sound to South Korean infantrymen who battled the attacking Reds three days without air support in rainy weather.

The Reds' 24-hour offensive that rocked the South Koreans back on the East-Central Front Monday and Tuesday appeared still in check early today.

Senate Ratifies NATO Treaties

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Senate today ratified a treaty giving foreign courts the right to try and punish American servicemen for civil offenses overseas.

U. S. courts likewise will have jurisdiction over similar offenses committed by troops of other North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) countries stationed here.

U. S. troops have been subject to trial in foreign courts for several years under terms of an executive agreement approved by former President Truman, but the treaty provision drew sharp fire from Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) and others who contended the United States should maintain full jurisdiction over its servicemen regardless of where they are stationed.

The overseas trial provision was the only one which caused a fight as the Senate ratified three separate treaties dealing with rights and obligations of official personnel of one NATO country stationed within another. There are 14 nations, including the United States.

Twelve cases have developed among a staff of 200 persons at Chesnut Lodge Sanitarium since July 1. Only one of the 12 had severe paralysis, and made an unusually rapid recovery.

Profits Tax Bill Is Sent To Ike

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Heeding pleas that amendments might cause further delays, the Senate voted a straight six-month extension of the excess profits tax today and sent the long-disputed tax measure to President Eisenhower.

Action came by voice vote after a 52-34 vote defeated the only amendment formally offered. That proposal would have exempted firms with net income of $100,000 or less. The present exemption limit is $25,000.

Senate leaders emphasized that any amendment in the House-approved measure, however worthy, would force the bill into a House-Senate Conference Committee and require another vote of approval in the House.

Blindness Doesn't Prevent Sightseeing Tour Of Capital

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The sightseeing buses lined up, and the tourists filed in, as they do day after day in Washington.

But today it was a trifle different. Some of them had their dogs with them, some had canes, others took the arms of friends who were serving as guides.

And the delegates to the convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind—two-thirds of whom can't see—were away on a sightseeing tour of the White House.

Tagging along, your correspondent fell in with a couple of late starters, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rosenbom of Chicago.

The White House, it turned out, was just one more stop in a busy schedule for the Rosenboms, who already had been to the Smithsonian Institution, Mt. Vernon, Arlington and had taken a moonlight cruise on the Potomac.

Rosenbom can see a little. Well enough to act as a guide but not well enough to read. Mrs. Rosenbom can scarcely see at all, "not well enough to recognize people."

But they both keep busy. Mrs. Rosenbom teaches the blind in Chicago, and Rosenbom said he works in an assembly plant.

Even a person with 20-20 vision wouldn't have got much out of today's trip through the White House, which was taken at a brisk trot.

But the Rosenboms seemed to enjoy everything pointed out to them. And when they came to the Oval Room, which includes several shelves of books, they joined in the laughter when some joker asked loudly:

"Have these books been cleared by Sen. McCarthy?"

Stray Dogs Eat Well

DETROIT, July 15 (AP)—Stray dogs will eat well in Detroit for the next year. The City Council today appropriated $1,800 for 25,000 pounds of dog food for canine wanderers who are lodged in the municipal dog pound.

Truce Delegates Meet In Showdown Session

Robertson Says Peace Up To Reds

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Walter S. Robertson returned from his Korean mission today to report that President Syngman Rhee has fallen in line with the United Nations forces and the question of a truce is now squarely up to the Reds.

Robertson, an assistant secretary of state who went to Rhee as President Eisenhower's personal envoy, called at the White House within an hour and a half after his plane touched down at the National Airport.

After a 40-minute conference with the President, Robertson told reporters Rhee has not changed his objections to an armistice in Korea at this time "but has agreed to collaborate with us" in an effort to achieve unification of the country by peaceful means.

Could Sign In Good Faith

"We can go ahead and sign an armistice in good faith at any time," he said, indicating that his two weeks of negotiations with the South Korean leader have created a situation in which the fighting could stop if the Communists sincerely want a truce.

An authoritative source at Panmunjom said "there is a very distinct possibility of another break down" in the truce talks. There will be a showdown at a secret session tomorrow, this source predicted.

There were indications that the stumbling block would be Red demands for the recapture of some 27,000 prisoners of war released by Rhee last month and for ironclad guarantees from the U. N. that South Korea will honor a truce.

Dulles Meets Robertson

Robertson was met at the airport here by Secretary of State Dulles, who told a circle of newsmen that the banker-diplomat from Richmond, Va., had done a splendid job in Korea and "made it possible for us to have an armistice."

Later the secretary qualified his statement by adding that an armistice would be possible providing the Reds agreed to it.

He declined to answer directly a question as to whether Rhee had promised not to carry on the fight alone if a truce is reached.

Talks May Come Out Of Secrecy

PANMUNJOM, Thurs., July 16 (AP) — U. N. Command and Communist Truce negotiators met less than a half hour today and recessed until Saturday, July 18, at 2 p.m. (midnight Friday EST).

SEOUL, Thursday, July 16 (AP) — U. N. Commander Gen. Mark Clark arrived in Korea today from his Tokyo headquarters as truce talks neared a crisis at Panmunjom and immediately accused the Communists of violating secrecy of the armistice negotiations.

Clark told newsmen who met him at an airport that the Communist radio report yesterday of an American "walkout" from the talks had "violated the executive nature of the truce sessions."

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, July 16 (AP)—The U. N. truce team holds a possible showdown session today with the Reds who reportedly already have been told it is time to sign the armistice or call off the talks.

A well-informed source said Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief U. N. truce delegate, laid it on the line at yesterday's 21-minute meeting.

Secrecy May Be Dropped

Peiping's Red radio said that Harrison abruptly ended Wednesday's parley without asking if the Reds concurred and "walked out of the meeting." North Korea's Pyongyang radio said Harrison "arbitrarily broke up the truce talks Tuesday and Wednesday."

Commenting on the present status of the truce sessions, the U. N. source said:

Rhee Upset Agreement

Official secrecy has been clamped on the talks for two months, broken only by the announcement that the two sides signed on June 8 an agreement for handling more than 47,000 anti-Red prisoners balking at a return to Communist rule.

South Korean President Syngman Rhee upset that agreement June 18—on the verge of a truce signing—with orders which freed more than 27,000 anti-Red North Korean prisoners.

The Reds angrily broke off the talks and President Eisenhower's special envoy, Walter S. Robertson, hurried to Seoul in an effort to get Rhee back in line.

House Cuts Ike's Budget Request For "Voice" 32%

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — House Republicans with a little Democratic help cut 32 per cent today from President Eisenhower's "austerity budget" request for the Voice of America.

The Voice is a major activity of the State Department's international information and educational program to counter Soviet propaganda abroad.

Bills Sent To Senate

Its financing was provided in a $168,155,584 omnibus appropriation bill which the House passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate.

Eisenhower had requested $87,900,000 to operate the program during the fiscal year ending next June 30. Former President Truman wanted $114,515,800.

The Eisenhower estimate was represented to the Appropriations Committee as an "austerity budget." The committee, however, cut it to 60 millions and the House sustained that action.

Rooney's Move Fails

Democrats led by Rep. Rooney of New York tried to add 20 millions to the Voice budget, giving it 80 millions. Revised State Department figures, Rooney said, indicated that was the bare minimum if the program was to be operated effectively.

Rooney's amendment to increase the allotment lost by a 244-154 rollcall vote, with 177 Republicans and 67 Democrats opposing it and 129 Democrats, 24 Republicans and 1 Independent supporting it.

Ike Asks Funds To Aid Stockmen

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Agriculture Department moved swiftly today to make emergency loans available to farmers and stockmen, and President Eisenhower asked Congress for 150 million dollars to finance the program.

Even before the new money is provided, the department will be able to draw on some 16 millions it already has available. A spokesman said local committees should be set up and ready to pass on loan applications within a week or 10 days.

The President, who only yesterday signed the legislation authorizing the emergency credit, made his request for the appropriation in a letter to House Speaker Martin (R-Mass). The amount was about what Congress was told would be needed when it voted to set up the program.

First priority was being given to the drought-stricken Southwest, where lack of rain has created shortages of feed and forced heavy marketing of cattle.

Margaret's Reputed Fiance Begins 'Exile'

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 15 (AP)—Capt. Peter Townsend, the man Princess Margaret of Britain is reported to love, bounced into Brussels in a luggage-laden little English Ford today to take up his duties as air attache at the British Embassy.

He arrived from London just two days before Margaret was scheduled to return there from an African tour.

The transfer of Townsend, a 38-year-old pilot-hero of the Battle of Britain who has divorced his wife, from Queen Elizabeth's court was widely regarded as a government move to separate him from the pretty 22-year-old princess. British papers said it had "the ring of a Victorian melodrama."

De Gasperi Completes New Italian Cabinet

ROME, Italy, July 15 (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi completed a new Cabinet today composed entirely of his own pro-Western Christian Democratic party members.

The 72-year-old statesman, who reluctantly took the job of forming his eighth consecutive government after the recent elections, presented the radically reshaped list to Italy's President Luigi Einaudi, who immediately approved it.

Missing Child's Body Found In Wilderness

MINAKI, Ont., July 15 (AP)—A 10-day search in the Northwestern Ontario wilderness for a little Winnipeg girl ended today when the child's body was found near Wade, Ont.

Geraldine Huggan, 5, wandered from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jared Huggan, at a summer cottage near Wade July 5. Boats and planes including a helicopter, were called in to assist ground search parties who combed the insect-infested swampy bush. Geraldine's body was found 2½ miles from Wade by Harry Hawes, a Kenora, Ont., prospector.

Loses Surplus Labor Tag

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Department of Labor today notified the Office of Defense Mobilization that Martinsburg, W. Va., no longer is rated a "surplus labor area" and hence does not qualify for preference in the award of government contracts.

School Board Sued For Banning Negroes

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP) — The Baltimore School Board was sued in Federal Court today by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in its attempt to force admission of 23 Negro girls into Western High School next September.

Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut gave the board until Aug. 1 to show cause why the girls should not be admitted.

Crewmen Bail Out Before Big Plane Plunges Into Sea

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 15 (AP)—A huge four-engine flying boat carrying a crew of nine crashed into the ocean west of San Diego today. All crew members parachuted to the water and were rescued.

Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp., which built the 64-ton craft for the Navy, said the plane was flying at about 10,000 feet when it plunged to the water. It sank soon after.

Cause of the crash was not known. A Convair spokesman said no explosion nor fire occurred.

Coast Guard air-sea rescue planes and surface craft were dispatched to the crash scene, about six miles west of San Diego.

Unverified Charges Draw Information Chief's Fire

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Dr. Robert L. Johnson, outgoing chief of the State Department's information service, said today some of America's most effective anti-Red programs are being damaged by "unsupported charges that they are somehow soft on communism."

Johnson, without naming his target, blamed "some of those who are in the forefront of the fight against communism."

He spoke out after Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) sidetracked one phase of his Senate investigations subcommittee inquiry into the kind of books on the shelves of the State Department's overseas libraries.

Notified by McCarthy that he need not testify today as scheduled, Johnson proceeded to disclose what he termed the full story of the libraries. He also made public a list of 35 authors whose works were blacklisted during and before the "book purge" row of the past four months.

"One of the great dangers I have sensed during my term of office is that many of our most effective programs in fighting communism are being impaired by unsupported charges that they are somehow soft on communism," Johnson said in an accompanying statement.

"I do not say that there is a deliberate effort to kill or cripple these anti-Communist programs through the simple device of making such charges. I merely point out that it is one of the tragic ironies of our time that some of those who are in the forefront of the fight against communism are among those who are damaging the action programs that do battle against it."

McCarthy, asked for comment on Johnson's remarks, said "I wouldn't know who he is referring to. He has praised our work right along and said how constructive it has been."

ROKs Regain Mile Of Ground Lost To Reds

Three Divisions, Led By Allied Warplanes, Hit New Chinese Line

SEOUL, Thursday, July 16 (AP)—Three South Korean divisions rolled forward in a counterattack on the East-Central Front today and, at first reports, had gained one mile in a push to retake ground lost to Reds early this week.

Squadrons of 5th Air Force planes roared out, too, for the first time in three days, blasting enemy positions along the sector.

The South Korean counterattackers numbered about 45,000 men.

Tanks roared along the highways beside the columns of ROK troops heading north. Allied heavy artillery pounded roads ahead of the troops.

South Korean Gen. Sun Yup Paik reported the infantrymen were "making good progress."

"I feel now that the battle has settled down to the point where we can go ahead and attack and drive the Chinese back," he added.

ROKs Hit West Of Pukhan

The ROKs were hitting northwest of the Pukhan River where the Chinese made their greatest gains Monday night and Tuesday morning in the onset of the Reds' greatest offensive in two years.

The Red gains came along a 20-mile wide front between Kumhwa and the Pukhan River on the Kumsong Bulge of the East-Central Front. The Red smash had knocked the South Korean back several miles, just how many was withheld by censorship.

Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. commander, arrived in Seoul as the ROK counterattack got under way.

Clark told newsmen, "The front situation appears to be in hand from reports I have received." But he added he would go to the front to see for himself.

He said he also would confer with 8th Army Commander Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor during his two-day stay in Korea.

Planes Destroy Bridge

Squadrons of thundering Allied jet fighter-bombers flew against the Reds trying feverishly to dig in on their newly won positions on the Kumsong Bulge.

The fighter-bombers opened their attack at dawn by knocking out the main bridge on the Kumsong River just west of its junction with the Pukhan.

The bridge had been mined but ROK troops failed to blow it up in their hurried withdrawal Tuesday.

The scream of the jets was a welcome sound to South Korean infantrymen who battled the attacking Reds three days without air support in rainy weather.

The Reds' 24-hour offensive that rocked the South Koreans back on the East-Central Front Monday and Tuesday appeared still in check early today.

Senate Ratifies NATO Treaties

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Senate today ratified a treaty giving foreign courts the right to try and punish American servicemen for civil offenses overseas.

U. S. courts likewise will have jurisdiction over similar offenses committed by troops of other North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) countries stationed here.

U. S. troops have been subject to trial in foreign courts for several years under terms of an executive agreement approved by former President Truman, but the treaty provision drew sharp fire from Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) and others who contended the United States should maintain full jurisdiction over its servicemen regardless of where they are stationed.

The overseas trial provision was the only one which caused a fight as the Senate ratified three separate treaties dealing with rights and obligations of official personnel of one NATO country stationed within another. There are 14 nations, including the United States.

London Sex Strangler Is Hanged As Crowd Cracks Morbid Jokes

LONDON, July 15 (AP)—A hangman's noose today snuffed out the life of John R. Christie, the sex strangler of Notting Hill.

The skinny little trucking clerk who confessed he killed seven or more women dropped through the gallows trap at Pentonville prison at 9 a.m. (3 a.m. EST) while fellow convicts wailed in a traditional outcry and a crowd of 200 cracked morbid jokes outside the gates.

A defense psychiatrist testified at the trial last month that Christie, 56, was fascinated by dead bodies. Christie's lawyer termed him "mad as a March hare" in his sexual orgies. Christie himself said his killings had "no reason, no sense." He pleaded insanity.

He was executed for the murder of his wife, Ethel, 54, whose body was found stuffed under the floorboards of his sleazy flat at 10 Rillington Place last March. The bodies of three younger women were found walled up in the pantry and the back yard yielded two female skeletons.

Controversy still raged around the case even after poker-faced Albert Pierrepoint, a Yorkshire pub owner who is England's chief hangman, finished his $56 job and James Johnston Mason, the prison surgeon, posted a notice at the gates certifying Christie was dead.

Christie walked the 12 yards from the death cell to the same gallows in a corrugated iron execution shed where Timothy Evans, a slow-witted 26-year-old neighbor, was hanged three years ago for strangling Evans' infant daughter Geraldine. Evans' wife, Beryl, 20, was killed with the child, but he was not sentenced on that count.

Christie was the chief prosecution witness at Evans' trial. But at his own hearing in Old Bailey, Christie said Mrs. Evans was among his victims. Some Laborite members of Parliament expressed the suspicion that Evans' hanging was a miscarriage of justice. This was denied in a report by a government inquiry group after holding closed hearings.

Civil Liberties Union Questions Matthews' Firing

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The American Civil Liberties Union said today the ousting of J. B. Matthews as staff chief of a Senate inquiry committee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) may have involved a violation of Matthews' civil liberties.

The union suggested that Matthews' resignation may have been offered and accepted under pressure without "fair hearing," as to his qualifications or disqualifications.

Matthews Asks Hearing

Earlier in the day, Matthews asked the House Un-American Activities Committee for a hearing in support of his charges of Communist infiltration of the clergy.

Matthews said an article he wrote in the July issue of the American Mercury Magazine, stating that Protestant clergymen make up the largest group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States, was "completely factual and fully documented."

Matthews offered to lay the evidence before the House committee. His article also stated that the vast majority of the Protestant clergy was loyal.

Senator Praises McCarthy

Chairman Velde (R-Ill) told newsmen he would take up Matthews' request for a hearing at a committee meeting scheduled for next Monday. He said he would have no comment until then.

Meanwhile, Sen. Alton Lennon (D-NC) described McCarthy as "a great American in the eyes of many people" and said he would gladly serve on McCarthy's now Democrat-less Senate investigations subcommittee.

The three Democratic members quit last Friday in protest over a party line vote giving McCarthy sole authority to hire and fire committee aides.

Gruenther Disagrees NATO Falling Apart

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, new supreme Allied commander in Europe reportedly told senators today he does not agree that the North Atlantic treaty setup is falling apart in the face of Soviet Russia's "peace offensive."

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate Appropriations Committee told newsmen that Gruenther definitely held contrary views on such pessimistic reports.

Corporation Profits After Taxes Increase

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission today reported an 11 per cent gain, over last year in the profits of manufacturing corporations, after allowing for taxes.

Profits before taxes were 10 per cent ahead of the year-ago figure and 14 per cent above the rate for the final quarter of 1952. The earnings totaled $6,600,000, before taxes, and $2,800,000,000 after taxes.

The latter figure was below the late-1952 peak, but the record was sufficiently good to cheer the Treasury, which is counting on improved industry earnings this year to bolster tax collections.

Happy Prisoner "30 Days To Good"

DETROIT, July 15 (AP)—When Edward Wood, 56, appeared in court Monday on a drunkenness charge, the judge warned that a 60-day jail term would be handed out on his next offense.

Wood was back in court today on the same charge and before the same judge.

The defendant asked for a jury trial and was found guilty, with a 30-day jail sentence recommended by the jurors.

"I'd have got 60 days from the judge, so I am 30 days to the good," he said.

Russia Seen Offering Peace Pact To Japan

TOKYO, Thursday, July 16 (AP)—Top diplomatic sources here expect the Soviet Union to expand its peace offensive to the Far East and offer a peace treaty to Japan soon.

The Soviets probably do not expect to lure economically-weak Japan to their side, but they hope to drive a wedge between this nation and the United States.

The Soviets attended the San Francisco conference in 1951 that wrote the peace treaty since ratified by most of the free world nations. But the Red delegates blustered about the terms and refused to sign.

Reds End Boycott Of U. N. Program

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—Soviet Russia pledged its first contribution today to the United Nations Technical Assistance Program, promising the equivalent of a million dollars for 1953.

This action, taken at the summer meeting of the U. N. Economic and Social Council in Geneva, was received with gratification by U. N. officials here.

The end of the three-year Soviet bloc boycott of the program aimed at helping underdeveloped countries raise their standards of living may now force the United States, the biggest backer to come up with another $600,000 in matching funds.

The United States is by far the biggest contributor of the more than 70 countries that have pledged funds and services to the 25 million dollar program. It pledged $12,700,000 outright this year. But also pledged to pay up to $14,708,000 in a matching plan if that total is not more than 60 per cent of all pledges.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said after the announcement by Soviet Delegate A. A. Arutiunian in Geneva that "each new contribution by a government is a further indication of the importance of the program to the underdeveloped countries." . . .

Civil Liberties Union Questions Matthews' Firing

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The American Civil Liberties Union said today the ousting of J. B. Matthews as staff chief of a Senate inquiry committee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) may have involved a violation of Matthews' civil liberties.

Earlier in the day, Matthews asked the House Un-American Activities Committee for a hearing in support of his charges of Communist infiltration of the clergy.

Matthews said an article he wrote in the July issue of the American Mercury Magazine, stating that Protestant clergymen make up the largest group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States, was "completely factual and fully documented."

Matthews offered to lay the evidence before the House committee. His article also stated that the vast majority of the Protestant clergy was loyal.

Senator Praises McCarthy

Chairman Velde (R-Ill) told newsmen he would take up Matthews' request for a hearing at a committee meeting scheduled for next Monday. He said he would have no comment until then.

Meanwhile, Sen. Alton Lennon (D-NC) described McCarthy as "a great American in the eyes of many people" and said he would gladly serve on McCarthy's now Democrat-less Senate investigations subcommittee.

The three Democratic members quit last Friday in protest over a party line vote giving McCarthy sole authority to hire and fire committee aides.

Gruenther Disagrees NATO Falling Apart

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, new supreme Allied commander in Europe reportedly told senators today he does not agree that the North Atlantic treaty setup is falling apart in the face of Soviet Russia's "peace offensive."

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate Appropriations Committee told newsmen that Gruenther definitely held contrary views on such pessimistic reports.

Corporation Profits After Taxes Increase

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission today reported an 11 per cent gain, over last year in the profits of manufacturing corporations, after allowing for taxes.

Profits before taxes were 10 per cent ahead of the year-ago figure and 14 per cent above the rate for the final quarter of 1952. The earnings totaled $6,600,000, before taxes, and $2,800,000,000 after taxes.

The latter figure was below the late-1952 peak, but the record was sufficiently good to cheer the Treasury, which is counting on improved industry earnings this year to bolster tax collections.

Happy Prisoner "30 Days To Good"

DETROIT, July 15 (AP)—When Edward Wood, 56, appeared in court Monday on a drunkenness charge, the judge warned that a 60-day jail term would be handed out on his next offense.

Wood was back in court today on the same charge and before the same judge.

The defendant asked for a jury trial and was found guilty, with a 30-day jail sentence recommended by the jurors.

"I'd have got 60 days from the judge, so I am 30 days to the good," he said.

Russia Seen Offering Peace Pact To Japan

TOKYO, Thursday, July 16 (AP)—Top diplomatic sources here expect the Soviet Union to expand its peace offensive to the Far East and offer a peace treaty to Japan soon.

The Soviets probably do not expect to lure economically-weak Japan to their side, but they hope to drive a wedge between this nation and the United States.

The Soviets attended the San Francisco conference in 1951 that wrote the peace treaty since ratified by most of the free world nations. But the Red delegates blustered about the terms and refused to sign.

Reds End Boycott Of U. N. Program

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—Soviet Russia pledged its first contribution today to the United Nations Technical Assistance Program, promising the equivalent of a million dollars for 1953.

This action, taken at the summer meeting of the U. N. Economic and Social Council in Geneva, was received with gratification by U. N. officials here.

The end of the three-year Soviet bloc boycott of the program aimed at helping underdeveloped countries raise their standards of living may now force the United States, the biggest backer to come up with another $600,000 in matching funds.

The United States is by far the biggest contributor of the more than 70 countries that have pledged funds and services to the 25 million dollar program. It pledged $12,700,000 outright this year. But also pledged to pay up to $14,708,000 in a matching plan if that total is not more than 60 per cent of all pledges.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said after the announcement by Soviet Delegate A. A. Arutiunian in Geneva that "each new contribution by a government is a further indication of the importance of the program to the underdeveloped countries." . . .

HOLLYWOOD, July 15 (AP)—Former child actress Jane Withers is recovering from a muscular ailment that paralyzed her arms and legs, her mother reported today.

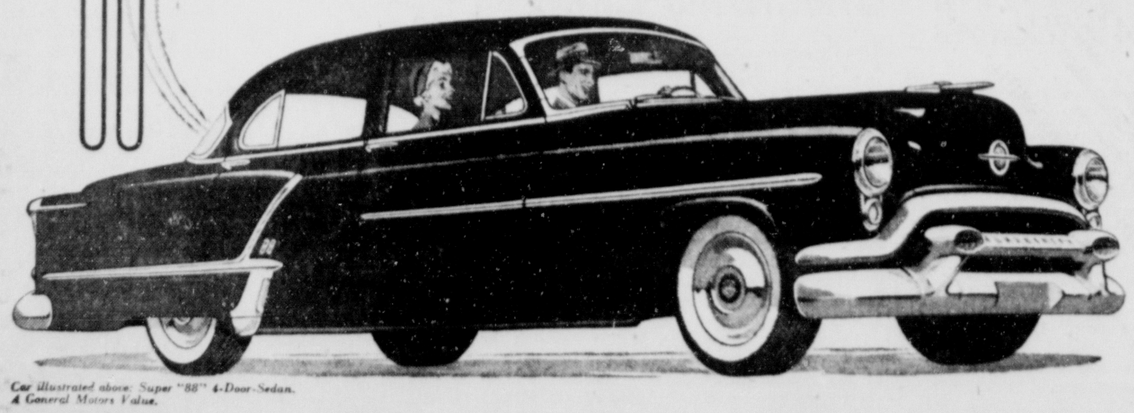

The mother, Mrs. Louis Boonshaft, said the actress was stricken after the strain of moving into a new house and taking part in Ann Blyth's wedding. She has been confined at the Boonshaft house, where her mother's husband, a physician, has been attending her. She said there was no sign of polio.

China Nationalist Guerrillas In Burma Defy U. N. Resolution

BANGKOK, July 15 (AP)—Representatives of 12,000 Chinese Nationalist guerrillas in North Burma today defied a United Nations resolution calling for their withdrawal to ease tension so close to Red China.

The guerrillas are troops of Chinese Nationalist Gen. Li Mi, now in Formosa.

At a four-nation conference—the United States, Burma, Thailand and Nationalist China—the chief Chinese delegate asked the guerrilla representatives to halt making press statements.

Despite that, Lt. Gen. Lee Tsefen today told The Associated Press that Gen. Li Mi has been gone from Burma for more than six months and has no control over the guerrillas.

Gen. Lee said that since Li left a military commission has taken charge and it executes the wishes of a majority of the troops. Gen. Lee said the troops do not want to withdraw.

The guerrilla leader said pressure was being applied by Gen. Li's personal representative at the conference for Lee's cooperation with Chinese Nationalist delegates in bringing about a smooth withdrawal operation. Gen. Lee said it just will not work.

In Rangoon Sunday a government spokesman acknowledged that Chinese Communist troops from Yunnan have filtered into North Burma, ostensibly to "protect" Burmese from the Nationalist guerrillas. Intelligence reports said the Red soldiers had hoisted the Red Flag over Burmese villages 25 miles inside the border in Wa state.

The Burmese government spokesman said he could not comment on the seriousness of the infiltration "at this stage."

Rain And Floods Derail One Train, Stall Five Others

CALGARY, Alta., July 15 (AP) — Heavy rain and floods fed by melting snows derailed one passenger train and stalled five others in the Rocky Mountains yesterday. Fifty bus passengers were stranded on the road between Alberta's Jasper and Banff mountain resorts.

Ten cars of the eastbound Canadian Pacific Railway's Mountaineer, a summer special between Vancouver and Chicago, were derailed a mile east of Stephen, B. C.

The line was still closed today with repair crews working on the damage.

Two coaches which remained on the rails carried the passengers to Field, B. C., to catch buses for Lake Louise and Banff.

Civil Defense Role Outlined

BATON ROUGE, La., July 15 (AP)—Federal Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson said here today Russia now has enough atom bombs to hit every metropolitan area in the United States simultaneously "and there's nothing we can do to stop them through the military."

Peterson, addressing the opening session of Louisiana's 3-day civil defense college, said Air Force Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg had estimated "seven out of 10 Russian bombers will get through. If they want to bomb the U. S. tomorrow they can send the planes up today."

Outlining the role of civil defense in the event of attack,, Peterson said "Civil defense cannot stop the attack, but it can minimize its effect by saving the lives of more than half the injured. This may amount to millions."

Civil defense, he said, is the extension of "already existing city facilities such as fire and police departments and safety patrols. It is a deterrent to war."

Peterson said shelters for every metropolitan area would cost billions. "That's why we think that dispersing the population into the country may be the answer.

"The Air Force said that in event of attack coastal cities may get 15 minutes warning. Some, like Seattle, might not get any at all. But we feel that inland areas may have an hour or more advance notice as the bombers will lose some time getting through our coastal defense."

Tammany A Tame Tiger

The marching son, "Tammanee, Tammanee," rings ever more faintly in New York City these days. Time was when a coalition was needed to tame the Tammany Tiger and to elect other than an organization Democrat as mayor. Fiorello LaGuardia, a fusion candidate, three times humbled Tammany. The incumbent, Impellitteri, made mincemeat of the Hall when he ran as an independent in 1950 and defeated both the Republican nominee and a Democratic-Liberal coalition choice.

Rejected by Tammany, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., had run for the House as a Liberal candidate in 1949 and trounced the Tammany man. Roosevelt had the Tammany blessing in 1950 and 1952; the present sachem of the Wigwam, Carmine DeSapio, has mentioned Roosevelt as a candidate for mayor, but the representative says he will not run.

For Rudolph Halley, Liberal party candidate for mayor, the C. T. McAvoy, American Labor party candidate, the primaries will be little more than a formality. Halley just about put the quietus to the Tammany tradition in 1951 when he ran for president of the council as a Liberal-Independent and defeated both the Republican and the Democrat. Any candidate of the "regular" Republicans is likely to face opposition in the primaries; an opponent of the Democratic organization is already in the race.

The decline of Tammany, like the decline of similar big city machines elsewhere, is not so much the result of ill repute as of the political facts of life. Tammany is the Democratic organization only in the borough of Manhattan, which 40 years ago housed one-half of the city's population. Today Manhattan has less than one-fourth of the population; Brooklyn has well over a third. And in terms of population, the Bronx and Queens are steadily creeping up on Manhattan.

William O'Dwyer of Brooklyn was the successful Democratic candidate in 1945, but he was under little obligation to Tammany. After his election, as he told the Kefauver Senate crime investigating committee in 1951, he "starved" Tammany of patronage.

Not since 1932, when it won with John P. O'Brien, has Tammany truly been able to make its own man mayor of New York. The following year the bumbling O'Brien ran third in an election won by LaGuardia. In 1950 Manhattan—Tammany—accounted for only a trifle more than 23 per cent of the total vote for the losing Democratic candidate. Judge Pecora, Democratic nominee, garnered more than 77,000 Liberal party votes in Manhattan, but even with these, he failed to match Impellitteri's total by more than 30,000—and this in Tammany's own bailiwick.

Another contributing factor to the decline of Tammany has been the marked lack of affection for the Hall on the part of national Democratic leaders. Though Pecora said he had President Truman's backing in the 1950 campaign, Truman avoided a formal appearance in Manhattan.

Under F. D. Roosevelt, Tammany was undermined. The other post-Civil War Democratic Presidents, Cleveland and Wilson, had little love for Tammany. And it was the Tammany stigma that in part defeated Al Smith in his try for the Presidency in 1928.

The Tax Overhaul Job

If the administration can put over the mammoth revision of the nation's tax laws that Secretary Humphrey has been talking about, the achievement will become historic. As the secretary of the Treasury says, the nation's present tax structure is not a planned system at all, but a jumble of laws piled one on top of another.

The question is enormously complex, and the Treasury head prefers not to commit himself on what kind of tax structure will eventually be recommended by the expert minds now struggling with the problem. But there is a fairly wide area of agreement on what characteritsics a good tax structure should have.

As Mr. Humphrey says, it should of course be "just" to all citizens and all groups—too many of whom apparently, feel that a just tax is one which hits the other fellow harder. A good tax structure should be efficient—hard to evade, easy to collect, low in overhead costs. It should not discourage healthy enterprise, or have recessive effects on business.

A good tax structure should be visible for the most part. People who pay taxes should know they are paying them. The revenue from a good tax structure should not fluctuate too widely with the ups and downs of the business cycle. It should be flexible. And it should apportion sources of revenue between the federal government and state and other agencies so that the latter, too, can have a good tax structure.

At present taxes on liquor and cigarets, for instance, are so high that they can only be justified as deterrents. But such taxes frequently bring in such high revenue that governments may, paradoxically, look kindly on the activities it meant to discourage.

There are also special taxes, like license, registration and gasoline taxes, at least part of the revenue from which is usually earmarked for the benefit of the specific groups who pay them. And the list could be lengthened interminably.

But the trouble is, as Secretary Humphrey says, that nobody has ever done much to make all these taxes unite in a harmonious, efficient, well balanced tax structure. It's a herculean task, long overdue.

A Legal Poser

Novel questions of law are never-ending. Changes in conditions and habits, development of new devices and conveniences give rise to many of them.

There is, for example, the case of the New York City housewife who makes the headlines by obtaining a summons against a neighbor, charging that the noise of his air conditioner constitutes a public nuisance.

According to the woman, wife of a taxi driver, the machine's hum keeps the family awake at night. Curiously, she found the magistrate before whom she appeared quite sympathetic. It seems he lives next door to a neighbor who also has an air conditioner. Declaring "this is a serious matter which must be legally determined by a court of last resort," he advised the woman as to the proper section of the administrative code under which to file her complaint.

The specific issue, said the magistrate, was as to how far a person may go in promoting his own comfort to the possible discomfort of somebody else. It's a legal poser. The case is sure to attract wide attention, for the rate of cooling apparatus installations in windows of homes and apartments, particularly in congested areas, is phenomenal.

Modern treatment of tuberculosis includes rest, a variety of chemical agents, and surgery. The methods used depend upon the extent of the disease and include the use of streptomycin or removal of the diseased lung. But despite the newer remedies, rest treatment is seldom if ever left out and many physicians consider it the best, safest, and surest accessory treatment to assure complete recovery.

In the past, rest meant strict bed rest in every sense of the word. Nowadays, the physician is more lenient and prescribes modified rest. The person with an active lesion begins by spending from 22 to 23 hours a day in bed. He is given bathroom privileges and may sit in a chair while the bed is being made. Most of the remaining time is spent sleeping or semi-reclining, listening to the radio, writing, reading or visiting. With improvement, increased activity is permitted. This means more self-care and meals in the dining room. In some sanatoriums the course of treatment consists of a minimum of six months of modified rest while the lesion is active. At the other end of the line, the patient should be well enough to be up and about 16 hours a day before returning home. This is an individual problem and depends upon age, sex, personality, and economic status. The occupation also is important and whether the victim is married and has children.

For centuries the medical profession has tried to find a drug capable of curing tuberculosis. Through the last decade, several have been introduced which do not cure but have proved helpful in hastening recovery. Streptomycin was one of the first but the bacilli soon became resistant and were no longer affected by its continued use. Para-aminosalicylic acid (PAS) was next to arrive upon the scene. It was of benefit but far from ideal. The current practice is to use a combination of streptomycin and PAS. This reduces the chance of becoming resistant to both preparations and, in addition, the results are better because one drug enhances the value of the other.

Last year the hydrazides of isonicotinic acid were introduced with a terrific fanfare but they have not lived up to their build-up although final judgment will require many more years of research. There is little doubt that the drugs have a good effect upon the superficial aspects of tuberculosis by increasing appetite, strength, weight, and the sense of well being. They reduce cough and fever and aid in eliminating the organisms from the sputum. But there is some question as to the permanent influence of the drugs and, in addition, the bacilli become resistant just as in the case of streptomycin.

Surgical remedies are used when chemicals fail. Collapsing the lung via pneumothorax or crushing the nerve to the diaphragm still is popular. Removing several ribs to produce a similar effect on the lung is reserved for more extensive involvement. Taking out the diseased lung surgically is a new procedure. It is gaining favor because the new drugs have made the operation safer. It is a remedy worth watching in the future.

TUBERCULOSIS

J. C. writes: Is tuberculosis contagious or communicable?

Both. Contagious diseases are infectious diseases that are spread or contracted through contact with specific infectious agents, without the need of an intermediate host such as the mosquito as in malaria. Though all contagious diseases are infectious, vice versa is not true. Communicable diseases are those that can be transmitted directly and through vectors such as fleas, ticks ,or mosquitoes.

Dulles' Boast May Cause Bohlen's Recall From Moscow; Question Of Increasing Postal Rates Raises Row On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON—The diplomatic corps is laying bets that the Kremlin will ban Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen from returning to Moscow as a result of John Foster Dulles' boast that Bohlen knew Beria was to be purged.

This not only put the U. S. ambassador in the position of being a spy, but of being a very good spy. Naturally the Russians don't want the top secrets of the Politburo leaking to us anymore than the White House wants secrets of cabinet meetings leaking to the Russian embassy.

Once before, Moscow banned a top U. S. diplomat, George Kennan, because he made an unfortunate remark about Russia. So the Dulles boast looks like a heavensent opportunity to get rid of an American expert on Russia, who speaks the language and really knows his way around. Incidentally, few U. S. diplomats are left who speak Russian.

Actually Bohlen did not get a real scoop on Beria's purge. He merely reported what other Western ambassadors did, that Beria was not at the Bolshoi Theater on June 27, the same night that tanks rumbled into Moscow.

Bohlen, a brilliant diplomat but never averse to taking a rest, got caught by the Beria incident en route to a vacation after he had been at his new post only three months. He was planning to sun himself on the Majorca Islands when the purge of Beria was announced. It may have been to cover up the vacation that Dulles boasted about Bohlen's alleged Beria prediction.

Unfortunately, the two got their wires crossed. For, while Ambassador Bohlen in Paris told newsmen he didn't think the Beria matter would interfere with his Spanish vacation, the secretary of State in Washington was telling the press that Bohlen had come to Paris because he knew Beria was going to get out and so he would be nearer Washington in case they wanted to consult with him.

After that statement, the ambassador had to go through with the deal. He took the next plane home, leaving his family in Paris, their summer clothes all packed for a vacation off the coast of Spain.

NOTE—Some of Secretary Dulles' best friends in the State Department are figuring on how they can get him to say less at the wrong time. His recent statement about rearming Japan put the pro-U. S. Yoshida government on the hot spot, played into the hands of anti-Americans. Another Dulles background statement about deserting Chiang Kai-shek brought a storm of wrath from Congress, caused Dulles to ask the White House to deny his own statement.

Four-Cent Stamps

Ike got into a friendly argument with one of his best advisers on Capitol Hill the other day over the politically dynamite-laden question of increasing postal rates.

Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas, one of the stanchest and earliest Eisenhower supporters, was called to the White House to be sweet-talked into upping postage stamps, but was reluctant to go along.

Meanwhile, another Kansan, Congressman Ed Rees of Emporia, chairman of the House Post Office Committee, got panicked into introducing a bill upping first-class mail from three to four cents, and airmail from six to seven cents. This, Carlson didn't like at all.

What happened was that Postmaster General Summerfield originally proposed raising airmail rates to eight cents, but the air lines kicked up such a fuss that he compromised at seven. He also proposed raising second-class rates on magazines, newspapers, etc., by 50 per cent. This brought a protest from some of the big magazines. And since the Saturday Evening Post, Look, Life, and Time were among Ike's best supporters, once again Summerfield whittled down the increase—to 42 per cent.

Meanwhile, Chairman Carlson of the Senate Post Office Committee felt that Summerfield should delay the increased postage until congressional committees could make a survey. On the other side of the capital, Chairman Rees, also of Kansas, feared it would be bad politics to increase the price of postage stamps and told his fellow Republicans that he wouldn't introduce Summerfield's postal bill unless he was pledged congressional support in advance.

In fact, the two Kansans, Carlson and Rees, entered into a pact not to introduce the postal bills.

The oher day, however, Ike personally phoned both of them, asked them to drop in for a talk. Whereupon Rees hastily introduced the increased postal bill—30 minutes before he was due at the White House.

However, the White House meeting was suddenly called off. This left Rees in the position of having walked out on his agreement with Carlson.

Later, the President did call in Carlson, and for the first time the two old friends disagreed. Ike asked Carlson to introduce the postage increase, but Carlson felt the bill should be delayed until hearings could be held and a survey made.

The Center Of Power

It is often difficult for a people who live under a Constitution providing for state elections and an orderly change of officials to understand another form of government in which power is achieved by murder. Yet, every change of government in Russia, since the fall of Kerensky in 1917, was marked by a struggle among powerful and ambitious men who employed murder as a weapon to achieve their ends. Since Lenin took over in 1917, there have only been two actual changes in the control of the state and neither of them orderly.

Lavrenti Beria was undoubtedly one of the most powerful men in Russia under Stalin, being the head of the NKVD, the secret police, whose function it is to guard the state, put down its enemies, anticipate revolution and control the Communist parties throughout the world, including the American.

In every embassy, consulate, Russian trading mission and national Communist party anywhere on earth, at least one or more representatives of the NKVD is situated. Whether he is the ambassador or a chauffeur, he is named the front man. Many were appointed by Beria and were loyal to him personally.

For instance, we speak of Vishinsky or Gromyko or Malik at the United Nations, but behind them, perhaps in a very obscure position, is an NKVD man whose habit it has been to report to Beria. No matter what a Politburo member may want or do, the NKVD (and its predecessors the GPU or the CHEKA) watched to make sure there was no betrayal of the state.

Beria's predecessors, Yagoda and Yezhov, were purged. Yagoda was an interesting character because his operations occured during the period of Stalin's emergence to power. Yagoda was undoubtedly a supporter of Stalin against Trotzky; yet there is evidence that his sympathies were with the right-wing Bolsheviks. Yagoda helped Stalin destroy most of the old Bolsheviks. In the end, Stalin purged Yagoda and had him killed.

It took Stalin about 12 years to consolidate his power against the old Bolsheviks and finally, he had to resort to murder. The present struggle for power moves at a swifter pace. Had the United States had an adequate intelligence service and a competent psychological warfare agency, advantage could have been taken of Beria's efforts to stimulate a popular revolt against the Kremlin. Instead, the United States sat on its hands and thus strengthened the position of Malenkov.

In this country are a large number of Beria's agents. How large a number, how they are distributed, where they are placed, I do not know, but I should imagine that the FBI does know. The FBI is the only agency of our government that is adequately staffed for counter-intelligence of this nature. Beria's men throughout the world are now living in terror because they know, from past experience, that some of them will be purged; that others will be assassinated as General Krivitzky was assassinated in a Washington hotel. They know that some of the most active anti-Communists, who have been disclosing data to the FBI and to congressional committees, were Yagoda's men who, when their boss was purged, took refuge in this country, and provided information.

This is likely to happen again. Malenkov and Beria were equals; one controlled the party, the other the largest and most effective police power in the world. The party triumphed over the police in the first show of power.

Beria's men will now be hunted everywhere. Whoever was close to him will be accused of conspiring with him to bring about a counter-revolution in East Germany, Czechoslovakia and Poland. Some in the United States will seek asylum, which they can get if they contact the FBI. Their day is done and they know it.

Stalin's purges were designed to produce a dictatorship and always preceded some warlike step. Will Malenkov follow that design, too? He will still have to struggle against Molotov and Bulganin. Molotov has the reputation of not being too smart; yet he has managed to outlive all old Bolsheviks but one, Kaganovitch. Will Molotov be killed by Malenkov or will he do the killing before the Russians try to "unify" Germany?

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Far more important than whether a congressional committee staff investigator who is bitterly anti-Communist shall be summarily fired without a hearing, while the rights of anybody in the government accused of being a security risk are well protected by an elaborate system of review boards with hearings, is another issue now developing in the Senate. It is whether a minority group of a committee shall be able to resign and a minority party, by refusing to appoint members in their places, shall effectively block the majority operation of congressional committees.

A "sit down strike" against the majority by the minority in committees is something unprecedented in the history of Congress, and it could be destructive. If, for example, the majority party was confident it could uncover corruption in the executive branch of the government, it could be prevented from making such exposure by the simple refusal of minority members to serve on a congressional committee.

GOP Aggrieved Too

The issue has arisen in connection with the action of three Democrats on the subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Government Operations—Senators McClellan of Arkansas, Symington of Missouri and Jackson of the State of Washington—who first voted to remove J. B. Matthews, former Methodist clergyman and staff investigator. When the latter quit anyhow, the three Democratic senators then voted against letting the chairman of the committee, Senator McCarthy, Republican of Wisconsin, choose the members of the operating staff. The Republican majority upheld the right of the chairman to select his aides.

Each committee can make its own decisions as to personnel of the staff, and, if it chooses by majority vote to delegate that authority to the chairman or to revoke it at any time, it can do so. To resign because a majority decide an issue of procedure differently from the viewpoint of the minority is to abandon the proper means of recourse—namely, an appeal to the full committee and, if necessary, to the Senate itself.

The Republicans as a minority party in previous sessions of Congress felt aggrieved at times when counsel not to their liking was chosen by the majority, as, for instance, in the case of the Tydings Committee. But the Republicans took their medicine and didn't walk out. In fact, the Senate itself later on appointed Senator McCarran, a Democrat, to conduct a second investigation on the subject.

Another issue which grows out of the same controversy was raised by Senator Monroney, Democrat of Oklahoma, on the floor of the Senate when he uttered a broadside attack against committee investigations on the subject of internal security. His thesis was that the Federal Bureau of Investigation and its director, J. Edgar Hoover, could be relied on to take care of this problem without congressional inquiries.

In this, Senator Monroney is repeating the familiar line of the Democrats in the last Presidential campaign, as taken by Adlai Stevenson—namely, that the entire job could be safely left to the FBI alone.

What Mr. Monroney overlooks is that Alger Hiss was caught, not by the FBI, but by testimony during a House committee hearing, and that the Teapot Dome scandal during the Harding administration was uncovered by a Senate investigating committee headed by Senator Tom Walsh of Montana, Democrat. As for the FBI's attitude toward congressional inquiries, the best testimony comes from J. Edgar Hoover himself in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report," published on August 11, 1950. In it the following exchange occurred:

Hoover Supports Committees

"Q: Do you believe that public exposures through congressional committees, when properly safeguarded to avoid implication of innocent parties, could be helpful in drawing public attention to instances and episodes involving espionage and other Communist activity?

"Mr. Hoover: With the laws of libel and slander militantly used by subversives, exposures under oath, with safeguards to protect the innocent, are necessary. A private citizen or even a great metropolitan daily paper does not have the facilities to make the investigations. Hence, many exposures can be made only through an official investigating committee possessing the power of subpoena with persuasive facilities such as laws covering perjury and the power to cite for contempt."

It would be unfortunate if the Democrats attempted to make a partisan issue out of their refusal to serve on the subcommittee of the Senate Government Operations Committee. For partisanship works both ways—and some Republicans could soon be claiming that the real reason that the Democrats have been balking is that they are afraid of what may be uncovered in the future concerning some hitherto undisclosed activities of Communist sympathizers inside the Truman administration.

Matter Of Fact

BERLIN

Lavrenti Beria was murdered in Berlin. He is unquestionably the most prominent victim of the revolution in Eastern Germany which started in the Soviet sector of Berlin. But viewed from Berlin, Beria's fate takes on an added, special meaning.

Among all the puppet rulers and proconsuls everywhere in the Soviet empire, there must now be a terrible fear and insecurity. It was precisely such fear and insecurity within the German Communist regime which three weeks ago led to the East German revolution. Take, for example, the present situation of Wilhelm Zaisser, the East German secret police chief, famous for his polished boots and his utter ruthlessness. Like almost every satellite secret police chief, Zaisser is accounted a Beria man. There are now widespread reports here that Soviet proconsul Smeyenov has returned from Moscow to Berlin with orders to send Zaisser the way of Beria. The next victim may be, instead, the aged Pieck, the brilliant, evil Ulbricht, the oily turncoat Grotewohl — or even Semyenov himself who has also been accounted a Beria man. Whoever may be next, in every satellite state, people must be asking who is safe and who is doomed, who really has power and who has none. When people begin asking such questions, a time of great danger has come for any police state. It was because people began asking such questions that the Soviet zone of Germany has experienced a revolution.

Successful Revolution

It is important to understand the nature of this revolution. It was, to start with, a genuine revolution. Its objective was to seize power, not from the Soviets but from the German Communist regime. Within the limits of this objective, the revolution succeeded. On June 17, in city after city, the writ of the Communist regime simply ceased to run. Premier Grotewohl has himself admitted, in an unguarded moment, that power was restored to the regime only thanks to "Our Russian Brothers"—for which read Soviet tanks and troops.

The oddest aspect of this revolution was that it precisely followed the pattern which Marx and Engels used fondly to forecast—and which (except perhaps more than 80 years ago, at the time of the Paris commune) never really happened on earth, until last month. Marx and Engels set two main conditions for a "revolutionary situation." One was that the lot of the oppressed workers should become intolerable. The second was that their oppressors should become confused and indecisive. In East Germany, the first condition has existed for years. The second condition was met only last month when, on June 11, the whole policy of the German Communist puppet regime was suddenly thrown into reverse by the Kremlin. The new policy of "easement for the populace" was accompanied by breast-beating confessions of cardinal sins by the puppet rulers, and insecurity, fear, confusion and indecision everywhere within the regime.

Thus, as the more intellectual workers leaders are fond of pointing out, a "revolutionary situation" was created. Is it not possible that the fear and uncertainty following on the purging of Beria will create a similar "revolutionary situation" throughout the whole Soviet empire?

Significant Factor

As far as an actual seizure of power is concerned, the answer is almost certainly again found in the experience of East Germany. Many workers' leaders, themselves devout Marxists, had the monumental naivete to expect the revolutionary Russians to applaud and approve their successful application of Marxist-Leninist principles. Instead, of course, the Red army crushed the uprisings in a matter of hours. The Red army can do the same job again anywhere in the Soviet empire at any time. There should be no illusions on this score. Yet the fact that the Red army had to do the job in Germany is itself enormously significant. The East German uprising proved to the Soviets the worthlessness in a moment of crisis of their local instruments of power, the German "peoples' police," and the "peoples' army."

If the job has to be done again in Germany, it will again have to be done by the Red army—and what is true of Germany is almost certainly true elsewhere. As this is written, the Kremlin is still attempting to shore up its artificial puppet regimes by continuing the policy of "easement for the populace." But here in Germany, at least, the workers' appetite has grown by what it has fed on. Already, the word is being passed in the factories, "again in August."

The only alternative to a policy of appeasement is a policy of brutal repression—and the arrest of Beria may be the signal for just such a policy. But this policy will mean the use of the Red army as a naked instrument of Soviet power throughout the Soviet empire. This will strain the resources even of the huge Red army to the utmost—and this at a time of a savage internal convulsion within the Kremlin. In this situation, it is not inconceivable that the Soviet may actually seriously consider contracting their empire, and extricating themselves from their almost impossible situation here in Germany.

This moment after the German uprisings and the purge of Beria could thus be a moment of supreme opportunity for the West—"A tide which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune."

Tammany A Tame Tiger

The marching son, "Tammanee, Tammanee," rings ever more faintly in New York City these days. Time was when a coalition was needed to tame the Tammany Tiger and to elect other than an organization Democrat as mayor. Fiorello LaGuardia, a fusion candidate, three times humbled Tammany. The incumbent, Impellitteri, made mincemeat of the Hall when he ran as an independent in 1950 and defeated both the Republican nominee and a Democratic-Liberal coalition choice.

Rejected by Tammany, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., had run for the House as a Liberal candidate in 1949 and trounced the Tammany man. Roosevelt had the Tammany blessing in 1950 and 1952; the present sachem of the Wigwam, Carmine DeSapio, has mentioned Roosevelt as a candidate for mayor, but the representative says he will not run.

For Rudolph Halley, Liberal party candidate for mayor, the C. T. McAvoy, American Labor party candidate, the primaries will be little more than a formality. Halley just about put the quietus to the Tammany tradition in 1951 when he ran for president of the council as a Liberal-Independent and defeated both the Republican and the Democrat. Any candidate of the "regular" Republicans is likely to face opposition in the primaries; an opponent of the Democratic organization is already in the race.

The decline of Tammany, like the decline of similar big city machines elsewhere, is not so much the result of ill repute as of the political facts of life. Tammany is the Democratic organization only in the borough of Manhattan, which 40 years ago housed one-half of the city's population. Today Manhattan has less than one-fourth of the population; Brooklyn has well over a third. And in terms of population, the Bronx and Queens are steadily creeping up on Manhattan.

William O'Dwyer of Brooklyn was the successful Democratic candidate in 1945, but he was under little obligation to Tammany. After his election, as he told the Kefauver Senate crime investigating committee in 1951, he "starved" Tammany of patronage.

Not since 1932, when it won with John P. O'Brien, has Tammany truly been able to make its own man mayor of New York. The following year the bumbling O'Brien ran third in an election won by LaGuardia. In 1950 Manhattan—Tammany—accounted for only a trifle more than 23 per cent of the total vote for the losing Democratic candidate. Judge Pecora, Democratic nominee, garnered more than 77,000 Liberal party votes in Manhattan, but even with these, he failed to match Impellitteri's total by more than 30,000—and this in Tammany's own bailiwick.

Another contributing factor to the decline of Tammany has been the marked lack of affection for the Hall on the part of national Democratic leaders. Though Pecora said he had President Truman's backing in the 1950 campaign, Truman avoided a formal appearance in Manhattan.

Under F. D. Roosevelt, Tammany was undermined. The other post-Civil War Democratic Presidents, Cleveland and Wilson, had little love for Tammany. And it was the Tammany stigma that in part defeated Al Smith in his try for the Presidency in 1928.

The Tax Overhaul Job

If the administration can put over the mammoth revision of the nation's tax laws that Secretary Humphrey has been talking about, the achievement will become historic. As the secretary of the Treasury says, the nation's present tax structure is not a planned system at all, but a jumble of laws piled one on top of another.

The question is enormously complex, and the Treasury head prefers not to commit himself on what kind of tax structure will eventually be recommended by the expert minds now struggling with the problem. But there is a fairly wide area of agreement on what characteritsics a good tax structure should have.

As Mr. Humphrey says, it should of course be "just" to all citizens and all groups—too many of whom apparently, feel that a just tax is one which hits the other fellow harder. A good tax structure should be efficient—hard to evade, easy to collect, low in overhead costs. It should not discourage healthy enterprise, or have recessive effects on business.

A good tax structure should be visible for the most part. People who pay taxes should know they are paying them. The revenue from a good tax structure should not fluctuate too widely with the ups and downs of the business cycle. It should be flexible. And it should apportion sources of revenue between the federal government and state and other agencies so that the latter, too, can have a good tax structure.

At present taxes on liquor and cigarets, for instance, are so high that they can only be justified as deterrents. But such taxes frequently bring in such high revenue that governments may, paradoxically, look kindly on the activities it meant to discourage.

There are also special taxes, like license, registration and gasoline taxes, at least part of the revenue from which is usually earmarked for the benefit of the specific groups who pay them. And the list could be lengthened interminably.

But the trouble is, as Secretary Humphrey says, that nobody has ever done much to make all these taxes unite in a harmonious, efficient, well balanced tax structure. It's a herculean task, long overdue.

A Legal Poser

Novel questions of law are never-ending. Changes in conditions and habits, development of new devices and conveniences give rise to many of them.

There is, for example, the case of the New York City housewife who makes the headlines by obtaining a summons against a neighbor, charging that the noise of his air conditioner constitutes a public nuisance.

According to the woman, wife of a taxi driver, the machine's hum keeps the family awake at night. Curiously, she found the magistrate before whom she appeared quite sympathetic. It seems he lives next door to a neighbor who also has an air conditioner. Declaring "this is a serious matter which must be legally determined by a court of last resort," he advised the woman as to the proper section of the administrative code under which to file her complaint.

The specific issue, said the magistrate, was as to how far a person may go in promoting his own comfort to the possible discomfort of somebody else. It's a legal poser. The case is sure to attract wide attention, for the rate of cooling apparatus installations in windows of homes and apartments, particularly in congested areas, is phenomenal.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Ways Of Handling Tuberculosis

Modern treatment of tuberculosis includes rest, a variety of chemical agents, and surgery. The methods used depend upon the extent of the disease and include the use of streptomycin or removal of the diseased lung. But despite the newer remedies, rest treatment is seldom if ever left out and many physicians consider it the best, safest, and surest accessory treatment to assure complete recovery.

In the past, rest meant strict bed rest in every sense of the word. Nowadays, the physician is more lenient and prescribes modified rest. The person with an active lesion begins by spending from 22 to 23 hours a day in bed. He is given bathroom privileges and may sit in a chair while the bed is being made. Most of the remaining time is spent sleeping or semi-reclining, listening to the radio, writing, reading or visiting. With improvement, increased activity is permitted. This means more self-care and meals in the dining room. In some sanatoriums the course of treatment consists of a minimum of six months of modified rest while the lesion is active. At the other end of the line, the patient should be well enough to be up and about 16 hours a day before returning home. This is an individual problem and depends upon age, sex, personality, and economic status. The occupation also is important and whether the victim is married and has children.

For centuries the medical profession has tried to find a drug capable of curing tuberculosis. Through the last decade, several have been introduced which do not cure but have proved helpful in hastening recovery. Streptomycin was one of the first but the bacilli soon became resistant and were no longer affected by its continued use. Para-aminosalicylic acid (PAS) was next to arrive upon the scene. It was of benefit but far from ideal. The current practice is to use a combination of streptomycin and PAS. This reduces the chance of becoming resistant to both preparations and, in addition, the results are better because one drug enhances the value of the other.

Last year the hydrazides of isonicotinic acid were introduced with a terrific fanfare but they have not lived up to their build-up although final judgment will require many more years of research. There is little doubt that the drugs have a good effect upon the superficial aspects of tuberculosis by increasing appetite, strength, weight, and the sense of well being. They reduce cough and fever and aid in eliminating the organisms from the sputum. But there is some question as to the permanent influence of the drugs and, in addition, the bacilli become resistant just as in the case of streptomycin.

Surgical remedies are used when chemicals fail. Collapsing the lung via pneumothorax or crushing the nerve to the diaphragm still is popular. Removing several ribs to produce a similar effect on the lung is reserved for more extensive involvement. Taking out the diseased lung surgically is a new procedure. It is gaining favor because the new drugs have made the operation safer. It is a remedy worth watching in the future.

Dulles' Boast May Cause Bohlen's Recall From Moscow; Question Of Increasing Postal Rates Raises Row On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON—The diplomatic corps is laying bets that the Kremlin will ban Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen from returning to Moscow as a result of John Foster Dulles' boast that Bohlen knew Beria was to be purged.

This not only put the U. S. ambassador in the position of being a spy, but of being a very good spy. Naturally the Russians don't want the top secrets of the Politburo leaking to us anymore than the White House wants secrets of cabinet meetings leaking to the Russian embassy.

Once before, Moscow banned a top U. S. diplomat, George Kennan, because he made an unfortunate remark about Russia. So the Dulles boast looks like a heaven-sent opportunity to get rid of an American expert on Russia, who speaks the language and really knows his way around. Incidentally, few U. S. diplomats are left who speak Russian.

Actually Bohlen did not get a real scoop on Beria's purge. He merely reported what other Western ambassadors did, that Beria was not at the Bolshoi Theater on June 27, the same night that tanks rumbled into Moscow.

Bohlen, a brilliant diplomat but never averse to taking a rest, got caught by the Beria incident en route to a vacation after he had been at his new post only three months. He was planning to sun himself on the Majorca Islands when the purge of Beria was announced. It may have been to cover up the vacation that Dulles boasted about Bohlen's alleged Beria prediction.

Unfortunately, the two got their wires crossed. For, while Ambassador Bohlen in Paris told newsmen he didn't think the Beria matter would interfere with his Spanish vacation, the secretary of State in Washington was telling the press that Bohlen had come to Paris because he knew Beria was going to get out and so he would be nearer Washington in case they wanted to consult with him.

After that statement, the ambassador had to go through with the deal. He took the next plane home, leaving his family in Paris, their summer clothes all packed for a vacation off the coast of Spain.

NOTE—Some of Secretary Dulles' best friends in the State Department are figuring on how they can get him to say less at the wrong time. His recent statement about rearming Japan put the pro-U. S. Yoshida government on the hot spot, played into the hands of anti-Americans. Another Dulles background statement about deserting Chiang Kai-shek brought a storm of wrath from Congress, caused Dulles to ask the White House to deny his own statement.

Four-Cent Stamps

Ike got into a friendly argument with one of his best advisers on Capitol Hill the other day over the politically dynamite-laden question of increasing postal rates.

Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas, one of the stanchest and earliest Eisenhower supporters, was called to the White House to be sweet-talked into upping postage stamps, but was reluctant to go along.

Meanwhile, another Kansan, Congressman Ed Rees of Emporia, chairman of the House Post Office Committee, got panicked into introducing a bill upping first-class mail from three to four cents, and airmail from six to seven cents. This, Carlson didn't like at all.

What happened was that Postmaster General Summerfield originally proposed raising airmail rates to eight cents, but the air lines kicked up such a fuss that he compromised at seven. He also proposed raising second-class rates on magazines, newspapers, etc., by 50 per cent. This brought a protest from some of the big magazines. And since the Saturday Evening Post, Look, Life, and Time were among Ike's best supporters, once again Summerfield whittled down the increase—to 42 per cent.

Meanwhile, Chairman Carlson of the Senate Post Office Committee felt that Summerfield should delay the increased postage until congressional committees could make a survey. On the other side of the capital, Chairman Rees, also of Kansas, feared it would be bad politics to increase the price of postage stamps and told his fellow Republicans that he wouldn't introduce Summerfield's postal bill unless he was pledged congressional support in advance.

In fact, the two Kansans, Carlson and Rees, entered into a pact not to introduce the postal bills.

The oher day, however, Ike personally phoned both of them, asked them to drop in for a talk. Whereupon Rees hastily introduced the increased postal bill—30 minutes before he was due at the White House.

However, the White House meeting was suddenly called off. This left Rees in the position of having walked out on his agreement with Carlson.

Later, the President did call in Carlson, and for the first time the two old friends disagreed. Ike asked Carlson to introduce the postage increase, but Carlson felt the bill should be delayed until hearings could be held and a survey made.

The Center Of Power

It is often difficult for a people who live under a Constitution providing for state elections and an orderly change of officials to understand another form of government in which power is achieved by murder. Yet, every change of government in Russia, since the fall of Kerensky in 1917, was marked by a struggle among powerful and ambitious men who employed murder as a weapon to achieve their ends. Since Lenin took over in 1917, there have only been two actual changes in the control of the state and neither of them orderly.

Lavrenti Beria was undoubtedly one of the most powerful men in Russia under Stalin, being the head of the NKVD, the secret police, whose function it is to guard the state, put down its enemies, anticipate revolution and control the Communist parties throughout the world, including the American.

In every embassy, consulate, Russian trading mission and national Communist party anywhere on earth, at least one or more representatives of the NKVD is situated. Whether he is the ambassador or a chauffeur, he is named the front man. Many were appointed by Beria and were loyal to him personally.

For instance, we speak of Vishinsky or Gromyko or Malik at the United Nations, but behind them, perhaps in a very obscure position, is an NKVD man whose habit it has been to report to Beria. No matter what a Politburo member may want or do, the NKVD (and its predecessors the GPU or the CHEKA) watched to make sure there was no betrayal of the state.

Beria's predecessors, Yagoda and Yezhov, were purged. Yagoda was an interesting character because his operations occured during the period of Stalin's emergence to power. Yagoda was undoubtedly a supporter of Stalin against Trotzky; yet there is evidence that his sympathies were with the right-wing Bolsheviks. Yagoda helped Stalin destroy most of the old Bolsheviks. In the end, Stalin purged Yagoda and had him killed.

It took Stalin about 12 years to consolidate his power against the old Bolsheviks and finally, he had to resort to murder. The present struggle for power moves at a swifter pace. Had the United States had an adequate intelligence service and a competent psychological warfare agency, advantage could have been taken of Beria's efforts to stimulate a popular revolt against the Kremlin. Instead, the United States sat on its hands and thus strengthened the position of Malenkov.

In this country are a large number of Beria's agents. How large a number, how they are distributed, where they are distributed, where they are placed, I do not know, but I should imagine that the FBI does know. The FBI is the only agency of our government that is adequately staffed for counter-intelligence of this nature. Beria's men throughout the world are now living in terror because they know, from past experience, that some of them will be purged; that others will be assassinated as General Krivitzky was assassinated in a Washington hotel. They know that some of the most active anti-Communists, who have been disclosing data to the FBI and to congressional committees, were Yagoda's men who, when their boss was purged, took refuge in this country, and provided information.

This is likely to happen again. Malenkov and Beria were equals; one controlled the party, the other the largest and most effective police power in the world. The party triumphed over the police in the first show of power.

Beria's men will now be hunted everywhere. Whoever was close to him will be accused of conspiring with him to bring about a counter-revolution in East Germany, Czechoslovakia and Poland. Some in the United States will seek asylum, which they can get if they contact the FBI. Their day is done and they know it.

Stalin's purges were designed to produce a dictatorship and always preceded some warlike step. Will Malenkov follow that design, too? He will still have to struggle against Molotov and Bulganin. Molotov has the reputation of not being too smart; yet he has managed to outlive all old Bolsheviks but one, Kaganovitch. Will Molotov be killed by Malenkov or will he do the killing before the Russians try to "unify" Germany?

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Far more important than whether a congressional committee staff investigator who is bitterly anti-Communist shall be summarily fired without a hearing, while the rights of anybody in the government accused of being a security risk are well protected by an elaborate system of review boards with hearings, is another issue now developing in the Senate. It is whether a minority group of a committee shall be able to resign and a minority party, by refusing to appoint members in their places, shall effectively block the majority operation of congressional committees.

A "sit down strike" against the majority by the minority in committees is something unprecedented in the history of Congress, and it could be destructive. If, for example, the majority party was confident it could uncover corruption in the executive branch of the government, it could be prevented from making such exposure by the simple refusal of minority members to serve on a congressional committee.

GOP Aggrieved Too

The issue has arisen in connection with the action of three Democrats on the subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Government Operations—Senators McClellan of Arkansas, Symington of Missouri and Jackson of the State of Washington—who first voted to remove J. B. Matthews, former Methodist clergyman and staff investigator. When the latter quit anyhow, the three Democratic senators then voted against letting the chairman of the committee, Senator McCarthy, Republican of Wisconsin, choose the members of the operating staff. The Republican majority upheld the right of the chairman to select his aides.

Each committee can make its own decisions as to personnel of the staff, and, if it chooses by majority vote to delegate that authority to the chairman or to revoke it at any time, it can do so. To resign because a majority decide an issue of procedure differently from the viewpoint of the minority is to abandon the proper means of recourse—namely, an appeal to the full committee and, if necessary, to the Senate itself.

The Republicans as a minority party in previous sessions of Congress felt aggrieved at times when counsel not to their liking was chosen by the majority, as, for instance, in the case of the Tydings Committee. But the Republicans took their medicine and didn't walk out. In fact, the Senate itself later on appointed Senator McCarran, a Democrat, to conduct a second investigation on the subject.

Another issue which grows out of the same controversy was raised by Senator Monroney, Democrat of Oklahoma, on the floor of the Senate when he uttered a broadside attack against committee investigations on the subject of internal security. His thesis was that the Federal Bureau of Investigation and its director, J. Edgar Hoover, could be relied on to take care of this problem without congressional inquiries.

In this, Senator Monroney is repeating the familiar line of the Democrats in the last Presidential campaign, as taken by Adlai Stevenson—namely, that the entire job could be safely left to the FBI alone.

What Mr. Monroney overlooks is that Alger Hiss was caught, not by the FBI, but by testimony during a House committee hearing, and that the Teapot Dome scandal during the Harding administration was uncovered by a Senate investigating committee headed by Senator Tom Walsh of Montana, Democrat. As for the FBI's attitude toward congressional inquiries, the best testimony comes from J. Edgar Hoover himself in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report," published on August 11, 1950. In it the following exchange occurred:

Hoover Supports Committees

"Q: Do you believe that public exposures through congressional committees, when properly safeguarded to avoid implication of innocent parties, could be helpful in drawing public attention to instances and episodes involving espionage and other Communist activity?

"Mr. Hoover: With the laws of libel and slander militantly used by subversives, exposures under oath, with safeguards to protect the innocent, are necessary. A private citizen or even a great metropolitan daily paper does not have the facilities to make the investigations. Hence, many exposures can be made only through an official investigating committee possessing the power of subpoena with persuasive facilities such as laws covering perjury and the power to cite for contempt."

It would be unfortunate if the Democrats attempted to make a partisan issue out of their refusal to serve on the subcommittee of the Senate Government Operations Committee. For partisanship works both ways—and some Republicans could soon be claiming that the real reason that the Democrats have been balking is that they are afraid of what may be uncovered in the future concerning some hitherto undisclosed activities of Communist sympathizers inside the Truman administration.

Matter Of Fact

BERLIN

Lavrenti Beria was murdered in Berlin. He is unquestionably the most prominent victim of the revolution in Eastern Germany which started in the Soviet sector of Berlin. But viewed from Berlin, Beria's fate takes on an added, special meaning.

Among all the puppet rulers and proconsuls everywhere in the Soviet empire, there must now be a terrible fear and insecurity. It was precisely such fear and insecurity within the German Communist regime which three weeks ago led to the East German revolution. Take, for example, the present situation of Wilhelm Zaisser, the East German secret police chief, famous for his polished boots and his utter ruthlessness. Like almost every satellite secret police chief, Zaisser is accounted a Beria man. There are now widespread reports here that Soviet proconsul Smeyenov has returned from Moscow to Berlin with orders to send Zaisser the way of Beria. The next victim may be, instead, the aged Pieck, the brilliant, evil Ulbricht, the oily turncoat Grotewohl — or even Semyenov himself who has also been accounted a Beria man. Whoever may be next, in every satellite state, people must be asking who is safe and who is doomed, who really has power and who has none. When people begin asking such questions, a time of great danger has come for any police state. It was because people began asking such questions that the Soviet zone of Germany has experienced a revolution.

Successful Revolution

It is important to understand the nature of this revolution. It was, to start with, a genuine revolution. Its objective was to seize power, not from the Soviets but from the German Communist regime. Within the limits of this objective, the revolution succeeded. On June 17, in city after city, the writ of the Communist regime simply ceased to run. Premier Grotewohl has himself admitted, in an unguarded moment, that power was restored to the regime only thanks to "Our Russian Brothers"—for which read Soviet tanks and troops.

The oddest aspect of this revolution was that it precisely followed the pattern which Marx and Engels used fondly to forecast—and which (except perhaps more than 80 years ago, at the time of the Paris commune) never really happened on earth, until last month. Marx and Engels set two main conditions for a "revolutionary situation." One was that the lot of the oppressed workers should become intolerable. The second was that their oppressors should become confused and indecisive. In East Germany, the first condition has existed for years. The second condition was met only last month when, on June 11, the whole policy of the German Communist puppet regime was suddenly thrown into reverse by the Kremlin. The new policy of "easement for the populace" was accompanied by breast-beating confessions of cardinal sins by the puppet rulers, and insecurity, fear, confusion and indecision everywhere within the regime.

Thus, as the more intellectual workers leaders are fond of pointing out, a "revolutionary situation" was created. Is it not possible that the fear and uncertainty following on the purging of Beria will create a similar "revolutionary situation" throughout the whole Soviet empire?

Significant Factor

As far as an actual seizure of power is concerned, the answer is almost certainly again found in the experience of East Germany. Many workers' leaders, themselves devout Marxists, had the monumental naivete to expect the revolutionary Russians to applaud and approve their successful application of Marxist-Leninist principles. Instead, of course, the Red army crushed the uprisings in a matter of hours. The Red army can do the same job again anywhere in the Soviet empire at any time. There should be no illusions on this score. Yet the fact that the Red army had to do the job in Germany is itself enormously significant. The East German uprising proved to the Soviets the worthlessness in a moment of crisis of their local instruments of power, the German "peoples' police," and the "peoples' army."

If the job has to be done again in Germany, it will again have to be done by the Red army—and what is true of Germany is almost certainly true elsewhere. As this is written, the Kremlin is still attempting to shore up its artificial puppet regimes by continuing the policy of "easement for the populace." But here in Germany, at least, the workers' appetite has grown by what it has fed on. Already, the word is being passed in the factories, "again in August."

The only alternative to a policy of appeasement is a policy of brutal repression—and the arrest of Beria may be the signal for just such a policy. But this policy will mean the use of the Red army as a naked instrument of Soviet power throughout the Soviet empire. This will strain the resources even of the huge Red army to the utmost—and this at a time of a savage internal convulsion within the Kremlin. In this situation, it is not inconceivable that the Soviet may actually seriously consider contracting their empire, and extricating themselves from their almost impossible situation here in Germany.

This moment after the German uprisings and the purge of Beria could thus be a moment of supreme opportunity for the West—"A tide which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune."

WASHINGTON — After a spectacular political rumpus the House has voted to extend the taxes on excess business profits until the year's end. It means almost a billion dollars in revenue for the government and that was the deciding factor.

To cut the tax would mean businesses could retain the money for reinvestment and expansion. But that would have been unfair to taxpayers whose income taxes would stay high.

It is wrong to cut any taxes when we have a 9½ billion dollar deficit. The previous administration, and the previous Congress, authorized this year's spending at a certain rate, believing taxes would produce more revenue than they did and that a deficit wouldn't matter.

Some have suggested an "easy way out." Cut foreign aid, they say—cut it altogether if necessary. But the House has already voted to reduce it nearly two-fifths. The members, in their collective wisdom, couldn't go further.

The Senate suggested that foreign aid be ended in 1955. I agree. It means a slowdown which begins this year. To stop sooner might be like slamming on the brakes in a speeding auto — you might throw your head through the windshield.

The record of the 83rd Congress shows where it stands on saving money. The House so far has reduced the government's budget by about $10 billion. We are cutting to the bone the future commitments which seemed to be a reckless habit of previous Congresses.

I am sponsoring abolition of the 15 per cent tax on rail, air and bus tickets. That will be considered when Congress reconvenes. President Eisenhower will present a careful program of tax cutting, and it will mean genuine tax relief for everybody.

We visited twice with the President last week. Saturday Vice President Nixon and Speaker Martin gave a lunch for him to observe the anniversary of his nomination in Chicago. Tuesday the 83rd Club—members who came to Congress for the first time this year, including myself—had dinner with Ike. We enjoyed both occasions.

Another high point of the week was my visit to the Maryland Rural Letter Carriers Association in Frostburg Monday. They are a fine group. This Friday I'll be at the meeting of the South Mountain Republican Club in Smithsburg.

Rev. John Baptist Palm, a former parish priest at Our Lady of Lourdes in Bethesda, was arrested by the Chinese Communist government in Shanghai June 19. I immediately appealed to the secretary of State for every effort to be made in securing his release, and I am assured that will be done. So far, we have no further information concerning this fine man who is known by many throughout Maryland.

Four Area Girls Get White Veils As Nuns In Baltimore

Four Cumberland area girls received their white veils as nuns in ceremonies last week at the Mother House of the School Sisters of Notre Dame in Baltimore.

The four, who will profess their vows next year, are Miss Marguerite Robison, daughter of Mrs. Ruth A. Robison, Mt. Savage; Miss Shirley Loraditch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Loraditch, 1307 Bedford Street; Miss Martha Murray, daughter of Mrs. C. A. Murray, 218 Cumberland Street, and the late C. Athey Murray, and Miss Rose Mary Lindner, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Lindner.

Miss Robison received the religious name of Sister M. Victor; Miss Loraditch, Sister M. Norma; Miss Murray, Sister M. Ruth, and Miss Lindner, Sister M. Carona.

Two of the girls have relatives in the Notre Dame Order. Sister Mary Ruth's sister, the former Miss Mabel Murray, is Sister Benjamin, stationed at St. Jerome's parish, Baltimore. Relatives of Sister M. Carona in the order are a sister, Sister Elsa, and an aunt, Mother Vitalia, who is mother superior of the Eastern Province.

The four girls are alumnae of Catholic Girls Central High School. Sisters M. Victor, M. Norma and Mary Ruth graduated two years ago from the local school, and Sister M. Carona completed her schooling there in 1952.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph J. Leary, pastor of St. Mark's Church, Catonsville, officiated at the ceremonies. Clergy from the area who attended were Rev. John A. Buckley, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Midland; Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Lonaconing, and Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, this city.

Prior to World War II, New Guinea was little explored, particularly in the Dutch sector with its snow-capped mountains. The west's fund of New Guinea knowledge was greatly increased during the war.

Four Area Girls Get White Veils As Nuns In Baltimore

Four Cumberland area girls received their white veils as nuns in ceremonies last week at the Mother House of the School Sisters of Notre Dame in Baltimore.

The four, who will profess their vows next year, are Miss Marguerite Robison, daughter of Mrs. Ruth A. Robison, Mt. Savage; Miss Shirley Loraditch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Loraditch, 1307 Bedford Street; Miss Martha Murray, daughter of Mrs. C. A. Murray, 218 Cumberland Street, and the late C. Athey Murray, and Miss Rose Mary Lindner, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Lindner.

Miss Robison received the religious name of Sister M. Victor; Miss Loraditch, Sister M. Norma; Miss Murray, Sister M. Ruth, and Miss Lindner, Sister M. Carona.

Two of the girls have relatives in the Notre Dame Order. Sister Mary Ruth's sister, the former Miss Mabel Murray, is Sister Benjamin, stationed at St. Jerome's parish, Baltimore. Relatives of Sister M. Carona in the order are a sister, Sister Elsa, and an aunt, Mother Vitalia, who is mother superior of the Eastern Province.

The four girls are alumnae of Catholic Girls Central High School. Sisters M. Victor, M. Norma and Mary Ruth graduated two years ago from the local school, and Sister M. Carona completed her schooling there in 1952.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph J. Leary, pastor of St. Mark's Church, Catonsville, officiated at the ceremonies. Clergy from the area who attended were Rev. John A. Buckley, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Midland; Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Lonaconing, and Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, this city.

Prior to World War II, New Guinea was little explored, particularly in the Dutch sector with its snow-capped mountains. The west's fund of New Guinea knowledge was greatly increased during the war.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Are you looking for a better position or for your first one? The experience can be a pleasure instead of an ordeal, if you choose to make it so. In all contacts, a feeling of self-confidence adds much to your enjoyment. That is doubly important in any job-seeking venture. So let's see what we can do to build self-confidence.

Naturally, you will be sure that your grooming is at its highest level. Your clothes will show your prospective employer that you know how to dress in a manner that is right for the job you seek. Knowing that you look right will give you poise and help to put you at ease during the interview. And looking right and being poised are both powerful factors in making a favorable first impression.

Interview Preparations

With just a few more preparations you will be all set. For example, though you cannot know exactly what questions you will be asked, there are some you can anticipate. Be ready with answers concerning your education, experience, previous or wanted salary, and if you have worked before, reasons for leaving your previous job.

It's valuable to learn something about the company or business that will be interviewing you. It will prove that you have an interest in your employer's goals and objectives. And it will make you appear intelligent.

Instead of just concentrating on what you want, keep the employer's viewpoint in mind. By doing so as you answer questions, you'll be making the best possible impression.

Be pleasant, courteous and modest at all times, irrespective of how the interview seems to be going. It will help you keep your morale high and whether you get job or not, you will have the respect of the interviewer. Who knows—at a later date you may be called back and given further consideration.

Seeking a job? Make these preparations before your interview and you are sure to gain in self-confidence!

Be Yourself

At no time during the interview should you try to be a different type of person than you are. Unless you are an unusually good actress, your deception will be detected. If you are a quiet, modest and unassuming person, don't try to be an animated talker or high-pressure type. Getting a job under false personality impressions is not a good foundation for future success or advancement.

So relax; take your interview easily. Be frank, honest, and interested. Be your own best self. That's the basis of all charm and it comes as much in business as in social life.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

National Park Boosts Harpers Ferry Hopes

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va., July 15 (AP)—This historic town at the meeting of the Shenandoah and Potomac Rivers hopes to touch off a revival of its earlier glory as a tourist attraction Thursday night.

It is having a dinner and dedication ceremony to mark the formal transfer of its shrines to the National Park Service so they can become part of the Harpers Ferry National Monument.

West Virginia bought the 515 acres with a $350,000 appropriation by the state Legislature.

The National Park Service has a long-range program for restoring the buildings that figured in John Brown's famous raid 94 years ago and the skirmishing back and forth between Union and Confederate armies in the war years that followed.

Marland Will Attend

It has park plans for the area around Jefferson's Rock, where Thomas Jefferson looked down upon the two rivers and their gorge through the Blue Ridge, saying it was worth sailing across the Atlantic to see.

Gov. William C. Marland of West Virginia and his predecessor, Okey L. Patteson, legislators from Maryland and Virginia, and Elbert Cox, regional director of the National Park Service at Richmond will be guests of honor at the dedication dinner.

Mayor Gilbert Perry guessed 250 will participate.

Some of them will go on a tour Friday morning of the 95 tracts being deeded to the federal government.

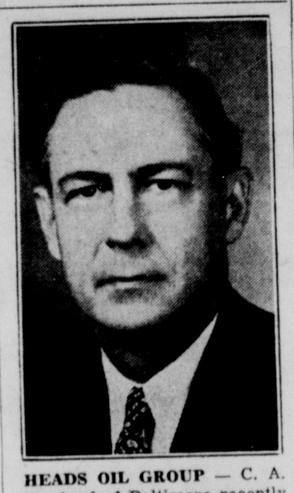

Hope For Tourist Revival

The mayor also predicted Harpers Ferry will become a tourist attraction again, once it gets on the map as a national monument. Thousands came here by train for summer holidays when that was popular back around the turn of the century.

There already is some indication of a revival. A hotel on top of the Harpers Ferry bluff, closed for several years, has reopened. There's a new motel on the edge of town.

Harpers Ferry, a thriving community of 3,000 before the automobile came, has looked like a ghost town for the past 20 years or so.

The great flood of 1936 almost was its death knell, knocking out the bridges into adjoining Maryland and Virginia. Their replacements, opened in 1947 and 1949, were built away from the point where the Shenandoah joins the Potomac, by-passing the town and the steep hillside to which it clings.

HEADS OIL GROUP — C. A. Newland of Baltimore recently was elected chairman of the Maryland Petroleum Industries Committee, which seeks to better "public policies affecting the petroleum industry and its customers." Newland is division manager of Esso Standard Oil Company.

Horseman Released

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP)—John Bosley 3d, 30-year-old horseman and member of a prominent Baltimore County family, was released from the House of Correction on probation today.

Bosley served almost half of a six-month sentence for driving an automobile on a revoked license.

Oysters of the Atlantic and Gulf coasts are individual in sex, but those of the Pacific coast may be both male and female in the same oyster.

Rustler Asks Court To Halve Sentence

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP)—Vernon E. Baldwin of Charlotte Hall will be heard July 24 on a complaint that his sentence for cattle rustling was twice as long as the law calls for.

Judge James K. Cullen today agreed to hear Baldwin's petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Baldwin was sentenced Nov. 29, 1951 to eight years for stealing three cows. Through his attorney, Hyman A. Pressman, he contends the maximum penalty in Maryland for rustling cattle is four years.

Baldwin argues that if he had been given the four-year term he now would be eligible for parole. He isn't under the longer sentence.

He is asking Judge Cullen to declare four years of the sentence invalid.

U. Of Maryland Teacher College Is Recommended

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 15 (AP) — A college at the University of Maryland to train elementary school teachers was recommended today at the 21st annual Parent-Teacher Association conference.

Joseph Hunter, president of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, termed it "one of the most important recommendations" made by the board of directors to the delegates.

"Teachers don't usually go too far from home to train," he said. "The concentration of qualified teachers near state teacher colleges proves that.

"It is in the Washington area that the shortage of teachers is felt acutely and a college here would help meet the demand."

The only state teachers college in Southern Maryland now is for Negro elementary teachers at Bowie. State colleges for white teachers are in Towson, Salisbury and Frostburg.

The delegates are to return to their local units to discuss the recommendation along with others by the board and decide upon a stand at the annual state convention in Baltimore Nov. 13-14.

Among the other recommendations were:

1. A state minimum salary for beginning teachers of $3,000 a year with annual raises of $200 for 10 years.

2. Canvass of their communities by county councils for former teachers who might fill vacancies.

3. A drive by all high school units and county councils for appropriations to extend automobile driver training.

Pittsburgher Almost Gets Away With Drafting Himself

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP) — Lumies J. Wright, 19, of Pittsburgh almost got away with drafting himself into the Army

James B. Murphy, assistant United States attorney, today testified it happened this way:

Wright was in the Pittsburgh railroad station on July 9 at the time a group of inductees was about to leave. He got to look at the papers of one of the new soldiers and memorized the name, Melvin H. Price, and the serial number.

After the soldiers left, Wright went to Army authorities, told them that he was Price and that he had missed the train.

The Army supplied him with transportation to Second Army Headquarters at Fort Meade, Md. Wright was issued his soldier's clothing and bedding there.

The authorities discovered they had two soldiers with the same name and serial number.

Wright was held in $1,000 bail today by United States Commissioner Ernest Volkert on a charge of impersonating a soldier.

Wright is a Negro. Price is white.

Polio Hits More Nurses

ROCKVILLE, July 15 (AP)—Three more nurses at the Chestnut Lodge Sanitarium were reported today to have been stricken by polio.

The Montgomery County Health Department previously had reported that six student nurses—of whom two have recovered—two members of the nursing staff and a psychiatrist had been stricken with the disease.

Accused Slayer's Arraignment Friday

ANNAPOLIS, July 15 (AP) — Arraignment of Francis Shaulis Jr., Harundale carpenter and former Army ranger charged with killing the mother of his five children, has been set for Friday in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

Shaulis, 31, was indicted on a murder charge by a county grand jury last week.

He is being charged with shooting his wife, May Ann, 27, whose body was found in their yellow cottage south of Glen Burnie June 12.

Shaulis gave himself up in Hagerstown after a 40-hour flight into Western Maryland and Pennsylvania with the five children, ranging in age from 18 months to 9 years. He has pleaded not guilty.

Reduction Justified

Couple Hunted In $612 Holdup

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP) — The police search for a dyed blonde and her gunman companion who held up a finance company in Montgomery County yesterday centered in the Baltimore area today.

The police named the couple in teletyped alerts to 13 states. The name of the man was the same as that of a Baltimorean who was paroled on Feb. 5 in Ohio where he served time for a jewelry store robbery. He was accepted by Maryland for parole and reported for violating it on May 18.

The police alerts urged caution if the couple is sighted because the man "is heavily armed."

They also advised the woman might not be a blonde any longer because she has a habit of changing colors frequently.

They were named in the alert as Thomas Dickerson and Hilda Humphrey.

Her age was given as 22 and her companion's, 30.

A couple held up the Regional Finance Co. office in Bethesda yesterday and escaped with $612. The man with a gun forced the manager and two clerks into the basement. He fled in a car driven by a blonde.

Hope For Tourist Revival

The mayor also predicted Harpers Ferry will become a tourist attraction again, once it gets on the map as a national monument. Thousands came here by train for summer holidays when that was popular back around the turn of the century.

There already is some indication of a revival. A hotel on top of the Harpers Ferry bluff, closed for several years, has reopened. There's a new motel on the edge of town.

Harpers Ferry, a thriving community of 3,000 before the automobile came, has looked like a ghost town for the past 20 years or so.

The great flood of 1936 almost was its death knell, knocking out the bridges into adjoining Maryland and Virginia. Their replacements, opened in 1947 and 1949, were built away from the point where the Shenandoah joins the Potomac, by-passing the town and the steep hillside to which it clings.

Rustler Asks Court To Halve Sentence

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP)—Vernon E. Baldwin of Charlotte Hall will be heard July 24 on a complaint that his sentence for cattle rustling was twice as long as the law calls for.

Judge James K. Cullen today agreed to hear Baldwin's petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Baldwin was sentenced Nov. 29, 1951 to eight years for stealing three cows. Through his attorney, Hyman A. Pressman, he contends the maximum penalty in Maryland for rustling cattle is four years.

Baldwin argues that if he had been given the four-year term he now would be eligible for parole. He isn't under the longer sentence.

He is asking Judge Cullen to declare four years of the sentence invalid.

Horseman Released

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP)—John Bosley 3d, 30-year-old horseman and member of a prominent Baltimore County family, was released from the House of Correction on probation today.

Bosley served almost half of a six-month sentence for driving an automobile on a revoked license.

U. Of Maryland Teacher College Is Recommended

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 15 (AP) — A college at the University of Maryland to train elementary school teachers was recommended today at the 21st annual Parent-Teacher Association conference.

Joseph Hunter, president of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, termed it "one of the most important recommendations" made by the board of directors to the delegates.

"Teachers don't usually go too far from home to train," he said. "The concentration of qualified teachers near state teacher colleges proves that.

"It is in the Washington area that the shortage of teachers is felt acutely and a college here would help meet the demand."

The only state teachers college in Southern Maryland now is for Negro elementary teachers at Bowie. State colleges for white teachers are in Towson, Salisbury and Frostburg.

The delegates are to return to their local units to discuss the recommendation along with others by the board and decide upon a stand at the annual state convention in Baltimore Nov. 13-14.

Among the other recommendations were:

1. A state minimum salary for beginning teachers of $3,000 a year with annual raises of $200 for 10 years.

2. Canvass of their communities by county councils for former teachers who might fill vacancies.

3. A drive by all high school units and county councils for appropriations to extend automobile driver training.

Pittsburgher Almost Gets Away With Drafting Himself

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP) — Lumies J. Wright, 19, of Pittsburgh almost got away with drafting himself into the Army

James B. Murphy, assistant United States attorney, today testified it happened this way:

Wright was in the Pittsburgh railroad station on July 9 at the time a group of inductees was about to leave. He got to look at the papers of one of the new soldiers and memorized the name, Melvin H. Price, and the serial number.

After the soldiers left, Wright went to Army authorities, told them that he was Price and that he had missed the train.

The Army supplied him with transportation to Second Army Headquarters at Fort Meade, Md. Wright was issued his soldier's clothing and bedding there.

The authorities discovered they had two soldiers with the same name and serial number.

Wright was held in $1,000 bail today by United States Commissioner Ernest Volkert on a charge of impersonating a soldier.

Wright is a Negro. Price is white.

Polio Hits More Nurses

ROCKVILLE, July 15 (AP)—Three more nurses at the Chestnut Lodge Sanitarium were reported today to have been stricken by polio.

The Montgomery County Health Department previously had reported that six student nurses—of whom two have recovered—two members of the nursing staff and a psychiatrist had been stricken with the disease.

Accused Slayer's Arraignment Friday

ANNAPOLIS, July 15 (AP) — Arraignment of Francis Shaulis Jr., Harundale carpenter and former Army ranger charged with killing the mother of his five children, has been set for Friday in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

Shaulis, 31, was indicted on a murder charge by a county grand jury last week.

He is being charged with shooting his wife, May Ann, 27, whose body was found in their yellow cottage south of Glen Burnie June 12.

Shaulis gave himself up in Hagerstown after a 40-hour flight into Western Maryland and Pennsylvania with the five children, ranging in age from 18 months to 9 years. He has pleaded not guilty.

Reduction Justified

Couple Hunted In $612 Holdup

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP) — The police search for a dyed blonde and her gunman companion who held up a finance company in Montgomery County yesterday centered in the Baltimore area today.

The police named the couple in teletyped alerts to 13 states. The name of the man was the same as that of a Baltimorean who was paroled on Feb. 5 in Ohio where he served time for a jewelry store robbery. He was accepted by Maryland for parole and reported for violating it on May 18.

The police alerts urged caution if the couple is sighted because the man "is heavily armed."

They also advised the woman might not be a blonde any longer because she has a habit of changing colors frequently.

They were named in the alert as Thomas Dickerson and Hilda Humphrey.

Her age was given as 22 and her companion's, 30.

A couple held up the Regional Finance Co. office in Bethesda yesterday and escaped with $612. The man with a gun forced the manager and two clerks into the basement. He fled in a car driven by a blonde.

25 Voters Report Changed Address

About 25 registered voters have notified the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors in the past 10 days that they have moved to a new election district or precinct since they registered.

William A. Wilson, chairman of the election board, emphasized that the 25 are only a small percentage of the voters who have changed addresses.

The election board needs to bring its address records up to date before brand new registration cards can be mailed out to the county's 42,145 qualified voters for the first time. If the voter's address is wrong he probably will not get his card and if he does he will be identified with the wrong precinct.

Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar, and C. William McDermott, Democrat registrar, have added only two new voters during July. Both are Republicans.

Crucial Games Facing Major League Leaders

Dodgers Host Cardinals In 4-Game Series

Yanks Must Meet Chisox, Cleveland Over The Weekend

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) — It's back to the grindstone tomorrow for the major league baseball clubs and the next seven days may be big ones in deciding whether we're in for another Yankee-Dodger World Series.

The New York Yankees, now found human through their recent nine-game losing streak, move out west where they have an important doubleheader Sunday with the Red-hot Chicago White Sox, followed by three games with the Cleveland Indians.

Race Shaping Up

If Casey Stengel's athletes can protect all or most of their five-game lead, there may be no heading them in the late summer stretch. If the Sox and Indians can cut into the advantage, the American League may be in for a crackerjack race.

Meanwhile, the unsteady Brooklyn Dodgers, holding a 1½ game edge in the National League, entertain the dashing St. Louis Cardinals in four games, beginning tomorrow night, and then next weekend tackle the second place Milwaukee Braves four times at Ebbets Field.

These activities, plus the doings of the New York Giants and Philadelphia Phillies, should bring the senior circuit scramble into sharper focus. Right now only 6½ games separate the leading Dodgers from the rallying fifth place Giants, who have won eight of their last nine games.

Here's tomorrow's schedule:

American League

New York at St. Louis (2, twi-night).
Philadelphia at Cleveland (night)
Washington at Chicago (2)
Boston at Detroit (night)

National League

St. Louis at Brooklyn (night)
Chicago at New York (night)
Cincinnati at Philadelphia (2, twi-night)
Milwaukee at Pittsburgh (night)

Yankees Meet Chicox

The Yankees have four games with the next-to-last Brownies before moving into Comiskey Park where they're apt to run into a hornet's nest with the White Sox.

The Sox have won 25 of their 31 games in the last month and have moved from fifth place, 13 games off the pace, to second, just five slots back of the Yankees. Now they have a a 12-game home stand with the Senators, Yankees, Red Sox and Athletics.

Chicago's sudden reawakening is attributed mainly to a couple of veterans picked up from the Browns, June 13. They are 36-year-old third baseman Bob Elliott, who has hit safely in 17 of 26 games for a .349 average, and 34-year-old Virgil (Fire) Trucks, who has been a factor in the White Sox' improved pitching.

The Indians, in third place 8½ games behind the Yankees, have three games with the Athletics and a Sunday doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox before entertaining the world champions next Tuesday.

Concerned Over Giants

Although the National League is developing into a five-team dogfight, Brooklyn's Charley Dressen is showing more concern for his inter-borough rivals, the Giants.

The Giants are now getting the best pitching in the league, with rookie shutout-whiz Al Worthington and Rube Gomez supplementing the regular staff. Also Monte Irvin is on a hitting rampage.

The Dodgers probably find it hard to forget that the Giants, who specialize in dramatic finishes, wiped out a 13½ game Brooklyn lead in less time two years ago and went on to win the National League pennant in a playoff.

While the Dodgers are playing the Cards, the Milwaukee Braves, just a game and half out of the lead, will be tackling the lowly Privates in three games at Pittsburgh. They follow this with a doubleheader against the Giants Sunday and four important games with the Phillies at Philadelphia.

The Phils and Cards are virtually tied for third place in the National League, four games back. The Phils have four games with Cincinnati before a Sunday doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs.

Central Lunchers Capture First Half Queen's Title

Beat East Side Maids By 5 To 3

Central Lunch's tossers racked up their ninth straight victory yesterday by turning back the East Side Maids, 5-3, at East Side to capture the first half title of the four-team Queen's Softball League.

The victory was the third in four meetings between the top two teams in the circuit and gave the Central Lunchers a two-game bulge at the close of the initial half of play.

Rosalee Bowers tossed a five-hitter at the defending champion Maids and chalked up her eighth triumph in nine decisions, as she bested the Maids' ace, Dorie Adams.

It was Adams' own throwing error that led to her downfall as the victors broke a 3-3 tie in the top of the seventh inning to score the winning runs.

Jean Hale opened the frame with a single and stole second. When Adams threw wild past third after fielding Elsie McKee's sacrifice bunt, Jean tallied the winning run and McKee went to second. Dot Heavener's one-baser then plated the insurance tally for the victors. The score:

CENTRAL LUNCH	120 000 2—5	7	3
EAST SIDE	002 001 0—3	5	2

Bowers and Clontz. Adams and Leatherman.

Meyersdale Tops Wellersburg 6-1

Meyersdale gained a three-way tie for second place in the Penn-Mar Baseball League yesterday by defeating Wellersburg 6-1 at Meyersdale.

Don Carey scattered eight Wellersburg hits and struck out 10 batsmen in recording the win. Charley O'Baker was the only Wellersburg batter to get more than one hit, collecting a single and double.

Sam Belcher had three bingles for the winners and Patsy Tuscano two. J. M. Brown and Stan Thomas each banged out a three-bagger for Meyersdale. The score:

WELLERSBURG	000 001 000—1	8	1
MEYERSDALE	200 002 11x—6	10	0

Flynn, Hansel (2) and Shaffer. Carey and Thomas.

Yankees, Cardinals Score DD Victories

The Yankees went on a hitting spree to blast the Giants 26-3 and the Cardinals downed the Pirates 11-7 yesterday in Dapper Division contests in the Dapper Dan Little League.

Rich Felten had three hits for the Yankees and Rich Murray banged out four hits including a homerun to bat in five tallies. Keyes, Mullaney and Colbert had two hits apiece for the Giants.

Henry and McCarty had two hits each for the Cardinals and Abe hit for the circuit for the Pirates in the night game at Penn Avenue. The Yankees-Giants tilt was played yesterday afternoon at Campobello. The scores:

AT CAMPOBELLO

YANKEES	130 (10)75—26	16	1
GIANTS	000 012— 3	7	5

Cross and Dougherty. Green, Scalletta (1), Mullaney (4) and Keyes. LP—Green.

Ben Hogan Loses "Exhibition" Match

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, July 15 (AP) — Ben Hogan, rested but still not fully recovered from the miseries that dogged him the day he won the British Open golf championship, today played an exhibition match for military personnel and proved that he still had his master's touch.

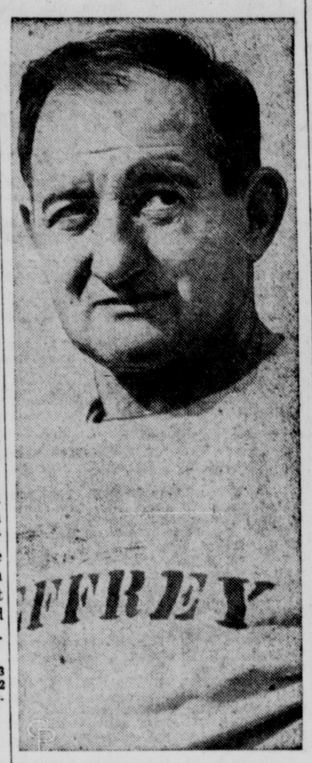

Playing the Fontainebleau course, which he never had seen before, Hogan shot a par 69, despite some uneven putting.

Hogan and Col. C. K. Tolle of Lakeland, Fla., teamed together and lost a best-ball match to "Fifi" Cavalo, the local professional, and Henri de LaMaze, France's top amateur, 3 and 2. Col. Tolle is stationed at Allied Air Forces, Central Europe, and is the headquarters champion.

NFL Says Radio, TV Hurts Game

PHILADELPHIA, July 15 (AP) — The National Football League said today that unlimited television and radio broadcasts of NFL games 'would destroy" professional football.

The NFL made the statement in a 92-page brief filed in U. S. district court in which it denied government charges that its league rule controlling TV and radio violates anti-trust laws and is in restraint of interstate commerce.

Bluntly, the NFL said that if the government wins its case—a decision is expected this fall—the pro football clubs would permit no telecasts or broadcasts of any league game.

Marciano To Defend Heavy Title Sept. 24

Champion Signs For New York Outdoor Bout With LaStarza

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Rocky Marciano, the shoemaker's son from Brockton, Mass., will defend his world heavyweight title against Roland LaStarza, former college student, in the Polo Grounds on Thursday, Sept. 24.

They signed the contract for the 15-round bout today. It will be held just a year and a day from the night Rocky lifted the crown from the aging head of Jersey Joe Walcott.

It will be the first heavyweight title fight in New York since the dreary Ezzard Charles-Lee Oma affair in January, 1951, and the first one outdoors since Charles took the championship from Joe Louis at Yankee Stadium, Sept. 27, 1950.

Half-Million Gate

For that reason, Promoter Jim Norris, head of the International Boxing Club, estimated that the gate receipts will reach "a half million or up" depending upon what arrangements are made concerning television.

Norris said the IBC is exploring the possibilities of both home and theater television. He indicated rather strongly that theater TV might be preferred because it would leave the possibility of profitable motion pictures.

In any event, Marciano, as champion, will receive 42½ per cent of the receipts, including TV and movies, and LaStarza 17½ per cent. Norris said top price for ringside seats would be $30.

A supplementary contract, approved by the New York State Athletic Commission, provided that if LaStarza should win the title, they will meet in a return bout within six months with each getting 30 per cent of the gate.

Although Marciano and LaStarza are noted for their quiet, gentlemanly demeanor, the fight is one which might develop considerable rancor before it comes off. It's a rematch of one of the most controversial bouts in the careers of both boxers.

Two Met In 1950

They met in Madison Square Garden in March, 1950.

Both were unbeaten at the time. On that occasion LaStarza was floored but got up and boxed rings about his rival but Rocky got a split decision.

Since then LaStarza and his manager, Jimmy Deangelo, have loudly demanded the return match they said had been promised them and Al Weill, Marciano's rotund pilot, kept side-stepping until a few months ago. Weill finally consented to accept LaStarza after the New Yorker had turned down the National Boxing Association proposal that he and ex-champion Ezzard Charles should fight an elimination.

Philadelphia's Seixas downed Fred Hagist of Berkeley, Calif., with a barrage of sharp back-hand drivers, 6-1, 6-2. Miss Connolly, of San Diego, who like Seixas won at Wimbledon this year, took less than a half hour to eliminate Marie Vidas of Hinsdale, Ill., 6-1, 6-1.

The triumph was the 13th in 18 games for the Elks as Billy Underdonk tossed a four-hitter at the Moose batsmen. Bob Pence starred afield and at bat to pace the Elks' triumph.

Pence collected three hits including a circuit clout and made several nice catches in the field at shortstop. Don Whiteman smacked a triple for the winners and he and Roy Whiteman and Pooch Orndorff also sparkled afield to aid the Elks' cause.

The victors broke a 3-3 tie in the home half of the sixth inning by scoring two runs as Underdonk bested Herb Dawson in a neat hurling duel.

When you pay for premium gas...

The man who pays a little extra for a gallon of gasoline has a right to take it for granted that he gets something extra in return. And he does, of course.

But he takes too much for granted if he thinks he gets the same amount of extra worth in any brand he buys! For it's a simple truth that the overall quality of "premium" motor fuels varies quite widely from one brand to another!

This may surprise you, but it is proved. And it leaves you with the interesting fact that the man who always visits our Esso Dealers, and runs his car all year 'round on Esso Extra will have gasoline that meets the highest all-round, year-round standard of quality on the market, regardless of the competitive claims you may hear!

Here is how we can know this to be true...

First, we list the eight performance qualities which automotive engineers agree are both important and measurable in a modern gasoline.

These qualities are:

1. Sheer Power; 2. High Anti-Knock; 3. Long Mileage; 4. Clean Engine Operation; 5. Quick Starting; 6. Fast Warm-Up; 7. Hot Weather Anti-Vapor-Lock; 8. Cool Weather Anti-Stalling.

With these as the yardstick, our laboratories scientifically check Esso Extra against all premium gasolines sold in competition with it. This is routine, because as leaders we have to know just where we stand.

But what we are happy to tell you now is that time after time Esso Extra meets the highest standard of overall year-round performance quality!

Perhaps this difference explains why Esso Extra is the largest-selling premium gasoline in the area served by Esso Dealers.

Anyway, it's why we invite you to run your car on Esso Extra. And...even though you may not feel all the difference that is there...your engine will know that the difference is there.

Esso Extra meets today's highest standard of year-round gasoline performance!

Crucial Games Facing Major League Leaders

Yanks Must Meet Chisox, Cleveland Over The Weekend

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) — It's back to the grindstone tomorrow for the major league baseball clubs and the next seven days may be big ones in deciding whether we're in for another Yankee-Dodger World Series.

The New York Yankees, now found human through their recent nine-game losing streak, move out west where they have an important doubleheader Sunday with the Red-hot Chicago White Sox, followed by three games with the Cleveland Indians.

Race Shaping Up

If Casey Stengel's athletes can protect all or most of their five-game lead, there may be no heading them in the late summer stretch. If the Sox and Indians can cut into the advantage, the American League may be in for a crackerjack race.

Meanwhile, the unsteady Brooklyn Dodgers, holding a 1½ game edge in the National League, entertain the dashing St. Louis Cardinals in four games, beginning tomorrow night, and then next weekend tackle the second place Milwaukee Braves four times at Ebbets Field.

These activities, plus the doings of the New York Giants and Philadelphia Phillies, should bring the senior circuit scramble into sharper focus. Right now only 6½ games separate the leading Dodgers from the rallying fifth place Giants, who have won eight of their last nine games.

Here's tomorrow's schedule:

American League

New York at St. Louis (2, twi-night).
Philadelphia at Cleveland (night)
Washington at Chicago (2)
Boston at Detroit (night)

National League

St. Louis at Brooklyn (night)
Chicago at New York (night)
Cincinnati at Philadelphia (2, twi-night)
Milwaukee at Pittsburgh (night)

Yankees Meet Chicox

The Yankees have four games with the next-to-last Brownies before moving into Comiskey Park where they're apt to run into a hornet's nest with the White Sox.

The Sox have won 25 of their 31 games in the last month and have moved from fifth place, 13 games off the pace, to second, just five slots back of the Yankees. Now they have a a 12-game home stand with the Senators, Yankees, Red Sox and Athletics.

Chicago's sudden reawakening is attributed mainly to a couple of veterans picked up from the Browns, June 13. They are 36-year-old third baseman Bob Elliott, who has hit safely in 17 of 26 games for a .349 average, and 34-year-old Virgil (Fire) Trucks, who has been a factor in the White Sox' improved pitching.

The Indians, in third place 8½ games behind the Yankees, have three games with the Athletics and a Sunday doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox before entertaining the world champions next Tuesday.

Concerned Over Giants

Although the National League is developing into a five-team dogfight, Brooklyn's Charley Dressen is showing more concern for his inter-borough rivals, the Giants.

The Giants are now getting the best pitching in the league, with rookie shutout-whiz Al Worthington and Rube Gomez supplementing the regular staff. Also Monte Irvin is on a hitting rampage.

The Dodgers probably find it hard to forget that the Giants, who specialize in dramatic finishes, wiped out a 13½ game Brooklyn lead in less time two years ago and went on to win the National League pennant in a playoff.

While the Dodgers are playing the Cards, the Milwaukee Braves, just a game and half out of the lead, will be tackling the lowly Privates in three games at Pittsburgh. They follow this with a doubleheader against the Giants Sunday and four important games with the Phillies at Philadelphia.

The Phils and Cards are virtually tied for third place in the National League, four games back. The Phils have four games with Cincinnati before a Sunday doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs.

Central Lunchers Capture First Half Queen's Title

Beat East Side Maids By 5 To 3

Central Lunch's tossers racked up their ninth straight victory yesterday by turning back the East Side Maids, 5-3, at East Side to capture the first half title of the four-team Queen's Softball League.

The victory was the third in four meetings between the top two teams in the circuit and gave the Central Lunchers a two-game bulge at the close of the initial half of play.

Rosalee Bowers tossed a five-hitter at the defending champion Maids and chalked up her eighth triumph in nine decisions, as she bested the Maids' ace, Dorie Adams.

It was Adams' own throwing error that led to her downfall as the victors broke a 3-3 tie in the top of the seventh inning to score the winning runs.

Jean Hale opened the frame with a single and stole second. When Adams threw wild past third after fielding Elsie McKee's sacrifice bunt, Jean tallied the winning run and McKee went to second. Dot Heavener's one-baser then plated the insurance tally for the victors. The score:

Meyersdale Tops Wellersburg 6-1

Meyersdale gained a three-way tie for second place in the Pen-Mar Baseball League yesterday by defeating Wellersburg 6-1 at Meyersdale.

Sam Belcher had three bingles for the winners and Patsy Tuscano two. J. M. Brown and Stan Thomas each banged out a three-bagger for Meyersdale. The score:

This may surprise you, but it is proved. And it leaves you with the interesting fact that the man who always visits our Esso Dealers, and runs his car all year 'round on Esso Extra will have gasoline that meets the highest all-round, year-round standard of quality on the market, regardless of the competitive claims you may hear!

Here is how we can know this to be true...

First, we list the eight performance qualities which automotive engineers agree are both important and measurable in a modern gasoline.

These qualities are:

1. Sheer Power; 2. High Anti-Knock; 3. Long Mileage; 4. Clean Engine Operation; 5. Quick Starting; 6. Fast Warm-Up; 7. Hot Weather Anti-Vapor-Lock; 8. Cool Weather Anti-Stalling.

With these as the yardstick, our laboratories scientifically check Esso Extra against all premium gasolines sold in competition with it. This is routine, because as leaders we have to know just where we stand.

But what we are happy to tell you now is that time after time Esso Extra meets the highest standard of overall year-round performance quality!

Perhaps this difference explains why Esso Extra is the largest-selling premium gasoline in the area served by Esso Dealers.

Anyway, it's why we invite you to run your car on Esso Extra. And...even though you may not feel all the difference that is there...your engine will know that the difference is there.

Esso Extra meets today's highest standard of year-round gasoline performance!

No Negligence Found In Probe

YORK, Pa., July 15 (AP) — The York baseball club of the Class B Piedmont League today was cleared of "any negligence" in an incident which resulted in an umpire suffering a brain concussion.

In a telephone call from Staunton, Va., Frank Summers, president of the league, told the York Dispatch he had completed his investigation.

Umpire Bob Chisholm was struck on the head by a metal chair dropped from the grandstand at York Stadium on July 7 following a night game. He spent several days in a hospital.

Summers said the incident was not one "which could be anticipated by the York club since it occurred so near the end of the game.

"Had it happened earlier and the thing had been simmering during the remaining innings then there would have been justification for additional measures," Summers told the newspaper.

The fan who dropped the chair was never identified.

Both teams scored two runs in the first inning, one in the third, two in the fifth and one in the first extra inning, the eighth.

Ed Athey had two singles and Joe Conroy a single and double to pace the Thoroughbreds while Ed Puffenburger's triple was the lone extra base blow for the Colts. The score:

Mantle Says He's Ready To Play Ball

JOPLIN, Mo., July 15 (AP) — Mickey Mantle said today he is ready to play against the St. Louis Browns, the next opponents of the New York Yankees.

With an almost unnoticeable limp, the Yankee centerfielder arrived here by plane this morning for a one-day visit with the homefolks at Commerce, Okla.

Mantle's right leg muscle injury was aggravated yesterday in the All-Star game at Cincinnati. He said it was not a bad injury but probably will need some rest.

Lions Defeat Optimists 8-7

A throwing error in the bottom of the seventh enabled the Lions to score the winning run for an 8-7 decision over the Optimists yesterday in a Hot Stove League contest at Penn Avenue field.

With one out and the score tied Lafferty caught a line drive and in attempting to throw a runner out at third for a double play tossed wildly and the winning tally romped home.

The game was a battle of homeruns with Johnson and Winters connecting for circuit blows for the Lions and Dycke getting a boundary belt for the Optimists.

OPTIMISTS	013 020 1—7	10	3

R. Fair and Howell. Winters and Dick.

Browns' Sale Near Completion

CLEVELAND, July 15 (AP)—Final contracts are to be signed tomorrow for the sale of the Cleveland Browns by Arthur B. McBride and Dan Sherby.

The group of Clevelanders buying the National Football League club will turn over a check for $250,000. This, together with the $50,000 paid as a binder when the deal was first signed last June 11, will represent half of the $600,000 purchase price. The remainder is to be paid over a period of four years.

Game Is Postponed

The regularly scheduled Rocking Chair League contest between the Knights of Columbus and the Moose today at 6 p. m. at Campobello has been postponed by mutual agreement because of the visit of the Supreme Governor of the Loyal Order of Moose to the Cumberland lodge this evening.

York Cleared In Ump Beaning

No Negligence Found In Probe

YORK, Pa., July 15 (AP) — The York baseball club of the Class B Piedmont League today was cleared of "any negligence" in an incident which resulted in an umpire suffering a brain concussion.

In a telephone call from Staunton, Va., Frank Summers, president of the league, told the York Dispatch he had completed his investigation.

Umpire Bob Chisholm was struck on the head by a metal chair dropped from the grandstand at York Stadium on July 7 following a night game. He spent several days in a hospital.

Summers said the incident was not one "which could be anticipated by the York club since it occurred so near the end of the game.

"Had it happened earlier and the thing had been simmering during the remaining innings then there would have been justification for additional measures," Summers told the newspaper.

The fan who dropped the chair was never identified.

The Moose Thoroughbreds and the Colts battled 10 innings to a 6-6 draw yesterday at Stitcher Field in a Pony League contest before umpires finally called the tilt to allow another game to start.

Both teams scored two runs in the first inning, one in the third, two in the fifth and one in the first extra inning, the eighth.

Ed Athey had two singles and Joe Conroy a single and double to pace the Thoroughbreds while Ed Puffenburger's triple was the lone extra base blow for the Colts. The score:

Mantle Says He's Ready To Play Ball

JOPLIN, Mo., July 15 (AP) — Mickey Mantle said today he is ready to play against the St. Louis Browns, the next opponents of the New York Yankees.

With an almost unnoticeable limp, the Yankee centerfielder arrived here by plane this morning for a one-day visit with the homefolks at Commerce, Okla.

Mantle's right leg muscle injury was aggravated yesterday in the All-Star game at Cincinnati. He said it was not a bad injury but probably will need some rest.

Lions Defeat Optimists 8-7

A throwing error in the bottom of the seventh enabled the Lions to score the winning run for an 8-7 decision over the Optimists yesterday in a Hot Stove League contest at Penn Avenue field.

With one out and the score tied Lafferty caught a line drive and in attempting to throw a runner out at third for a double play tossed wildly and the winning tally romped home.

The game was a battle of homeruns with Johnson and Winters connecting for circuit blows for the Lions and Dycke getting a boundary belt for the Optimists.

OPTIMISTS	013 020 1—7 10 3

Browns' Sale Near Completion

CLEVELAND, July 15 (AP)—Final contracts are to be signed tomorrow for the sale of the Cleveland Browns by Arthur B. McBride and Dan Sherby.

The group of Clevelanders buying the National Football League club will turn over a check for $250,000. This, together with the $50,000 paid as a binder when the deal was first signed last June 11, will represent half of the $600,000 purchase price. The remainder is to be paid over a period of four years.

Game Is Postponed

The regularly scheduled Rocking Chair League contest between the Knights of Columbus and the Moose today at 6 p. m. at Campobello has been postponed by mutual agreement because of the visit of the Supreme Governor of the Loyal Order of Moose to the Cumberland lodge this evening.

Confederate Veteran, 107, To Be Guest Of Honor At 3-Day Sons Of America Picnic At Unger, W. Va.

"General" John Stalling, 107, one of the four surviving Confederate soldiers, will be honored at the annual Patriotic Order Sons of America picnic, scheduled to open today at Unger, near Berkeley Springs.

The three-day affair will feature a jousting tournament, beauty contest, string and band music and a varied program.

Perry R. Unger, chairman of the arrangement committee, announced that the POSA Lodge will confer honors on Stalling who will be flown from his home in Slant, Va. to Washington by American Airlines and brought to Unger by auto caravan for the ceremony scheduled Friday at 7:30 p. m. (EST).

The jousting tournament, once a favorite sport of the Unger community, will feature Saturday's activities. The Maryland Jousting Association will sponsor the tournament, the first held in Unger for over 35 years.

Arrangements to bring "General" Stalling to Unger were made last November by Mr. and Mrs. Perry R. Unger. The couple visited Stalling at his home near the Tennessee border and reported that he is in excellent health. Life Magazine recently ran a feature story of Stalling and the other survivors of the Civil War.

Stalling, who still possesses jet black hair, travels all the time by airplane and is in great demand for public appearances.

The 30th annual picnic will open today with concessions and rides the main attractions. Friday's program will begin at 1 p. m. and continue until midnight, with Samuel Moss' Band presenting music at 4 p. m.

Concessions and rides will reopen on Saturday at 10 a. m., and the program will continue until midnight. The jousting tournament will begin at 2 p. m., band concerts are scheduled at 4 and 9 p. m., and other entertainment will be crowded between the main events.

Last year an estimated 10,000 attended the affair although there are not more than a dozen homes in Unger, and the population is less than 100.

Moorefield School Paper Wins Award

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—P. W. Clarke and P. W. Clarke, Jr., adviser and editor of the Moorefield High School Beacon, recently received an award which was won by The Beacon for an editorial entitled "I Speak for Democracy" by Ila Martin.

The award consisted of a large medal and a check for $100 and was presented in ceremonies at Huntington. It is one of the top awards of the Freedom Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa.

On one side of the medal is a picture of George Washington kneeling in prayer at Valley Forge and beneath the picture the inscription, "Honoring Moorefield High School Beacon." On the reverse is the inscription, "For outstanding achievement in bringing about a better understanding of the American way of life."

Six awards were presented by Dr. Kenneth Wells, president of Freedoms Foundation, Inc., in a half-hour ceremony. Moorefield was the only high school in the state to receive an award.

Confederate Veteran, 107, To Be Guest Of Honor At 3-Day Sons Of America Picnic At Unger, W. Va.

"General" John Stalling, 107, one of the four surviving Confederate soldiers, will be honored at the annual Patriotic Order Sons of America picnic, scheduled to open today at Unger, near Berkeley Springs.

The three-day affair will feature a jousting tournament, beauty contest, string and band music and a varied program.

Perry R. Unger, chairman of the arrangement committee, announced that the POSA Lodge will confer honors on Stalling who will be flown from his home in Slant, Va. to Washington by American Airlines and brought to Unger by auto caravan for the ceremony scheduled Friday at 7:30 p. m. (EST).

The jousting tournament, once a favorite sport of the Unger community, will feature Saturday's activities. The Maryland Jousting Association will sponsor the tournament, the first held in Unger for over 35 years.

Arrangements to bring "General" Stalling to Unger were made last November by Mr. and Mrs. Perry R. Unger. The couple visited Stalling at his home near the Tennessee border and reported that he is in excellent health. Life Magazine recently ran a feature story of Stalling and the other survivors of the Civil War.

Stalling, who still possesses jet black hair, travels all the time by airplane and is in great demand for public appearances.

The 30th annual picnic will open today with concessions and rides the main attractions. Friday's program will begin at 1 p. m. and continue until midnight, with Samuel Moss' Band presenting music at 4 p. m.

Concessions and rides will reopen on Saturday at 10 a. m., and the program will continue until midnight. The jousting tournament will begin at 2 p. m., band concerts are scheduled at 4 and 9 p. m., and other entertainment will be crowded between the main events.

Last year an estimated 10,000 attended the affair although there are not more than a dozen homes in Unger, and the population is less than 100.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 15 (INS)—Suspensions face two of 20th's stars. Victor Mature doesn't want to do "Prince Valiant"—thinks the role isn't big enough. So he's been given an alternative. He's been told to report to RKO for "Glacier." Failing to do this he goes off salary. Could the Del Mar racing season have anything to do with his reluctance to work now?

As for Gloria Grahame, she hasn't yet let 20th know whether she'll go to Munich for "Night People" or not. She's been given until Aug. 1 to make up her mind, but the studio isn't very hopeful that she'll leave her boyfriend, Cy Howard.

There's no hotter nightclub attraction in the business than Nat "King" Cole so Burgess Meredith is crazy like an adding machine in talking with Cole about a new film version of Eugene O'Neill's "Emperor Jones."

Burgess' plan is to produce the picture in Harlem an Haiti with several other famed Negro actors and performers backing up the "King" in the cast.

With Nat as the star, naturally an original musical score will be whipped up to enhance the O'Neill play.

A great many people are of the opinion that Lana Turner should marry Lex Barker—or else stop traipsing all over the continent with him, and I'm one of them.

Even the fact that Lana's mother is now in Europe with Lana's little Cheryl and Lex's two children giving the thing a sort of family look doesn't whitewash the criticism Lana and Lex are receiving.

As of this moment, Lana is in London making "The Flame and the Flesh." Lex is in Italy working in "The Mystery Black Jungle" to be followed by "The Tiger Hunter," also in Italy, so the gossip is temporarily stopped. But it's sure to start again when Lex and Lana are reunited.

Tongues will be wagging like Geiger counters this morning because Elaine Stewart showed up at the "Stalag 17" premier last night with oJhn Ericson. The gimmick is that Ericson's fiancee, Millie Coury, gets in Friday from Chicago for their wedding in Beverly Hills.

Ericson realized it was a calculated risk to take such a glamor gal as Elaine to the movie—but they're good friends—"and I wanted her to see the story I played on the stage for 18 months," he explains.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The Jane Powell-Geary Steffen property settlement is expected to be reached this week. Then Jane's attorney, David Tannenbaum, will file for divorce.

Piette Gallant, writer on Match the Paris magazine (comparable to Life) gets here in a few weeks to see Olivia De Havilland.

At the Bel Air farm house sitting at a quiet table were Donald O'Connor, his daughter, and Marilyn Erskine.

Although I printed last week that Coleen Grey was planning to marry Lt. Commander William Bidlack any edition, I still thought she would change her mind. She was sooo in love with John Payne for so long.

Isn't the marriage of Sonja Henie and Winnie Gardiner near the breaking point? In Paris Sonja is seen everywhere with Claude Terrail, owner of the famous Tour D'Argent.

At the Bantam Cock last night Jeff Chandler dining alone; Marilyn Maxwell with Jerry Davis whom she is expected to marry; and Gussie Moran with Frank Feltrop, tennis pro, but this doesn't mean anything. Gussie's marrying another man—Edward Hand of Buffalo.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Three Area Delegates Attend Shriners Meet

Two Cumberlanders and one Frostburger are among the delegates from the Ali Ghan Shrine Temple and the other 165 temples of the nation attending the annual meeting of the Imperial Council of the order at New York.

From Cumberland are Howard Vandegrift, past potentate, of 600 Bedford Street, and Edmund S. Burke, chief rabban, of 736 Washington Street. A. Wayne Reed, past potentate, of 65 Bowery Street, represents Frostburg.

Queen Has Eye For U. S. Uniform

ODIHAM, England, July 15 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II, like many another English girl, has an eye for an American uniform.

She spotted one today as her car toured the ranks of airmen lined up here for her coronation review of the Royal Air Force.

The car stopped. The Queen stepped out and soon she was talking to Capt. Michael Evanco, a navigator serving with the RAF under an Anglo-American exchange scheme.

"Do you fly in one of these?" asked the Queen.

"No," said Evanco. He explained he flies in a Washington, the RAF version of the U. S. B29.

Evanco told the Queen he has been with the RAF a year and is stationed at Marham in Norfolk.

"That makes us neighbors," the Queen said.

Hospital Architectural Issue To Be Tackled

BALTIMORE, July 15 (AP)—Nathan L. Smith, state director of public improvements, expressed the hope today that another conference soon will settle an architectural problem concerning the new chronic disease hospital at Hagerstown.

Smith said he will meet either tomorrow or early next week with Bernard J. Evander, a Baltimore architect.

Evander was commissioned during the administration of Gov. Herbert R O'Conor to draw plans for a general chronic disease hospital system.

Among them, Evander claims, was detailed plans for a hospital at Hagerstown and he expects the state to pay for them. Money for the hospital was appropriated only two years ago and state health authorities have indicated they want new plans from another architect.

SUIT PREFERENCE EASY

THERE is nothing particularly abstruse or difficult about the play bearing the high-sounding title of "suit preference signal." Indeed, it is such a natural device that an extremely bright person, who never had heard of it, could be expected to figure it out on the spot the first time he encountered it. When it is clear to everybody concerned that the player who won the last trick is sure to shift to one of two different suits, his partner should tell him which, if he has a distinct preference. In his play to the trick just won, he should use his lowest card of that suit if he wants the lower-ranking of the other two suits led, and an unnecessarily high card if he wants the higher-ranking suit led.

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	1 ♠	3 ♥	3 ♠
4 ♣	4 ♠	6 ♥	Dbl.

South felt sure, as soon as he heard the club bid from his partner, that North held either the A of his clubs or the spade A to compensate for its lack. North, however, had opened the bidding with slightly shaded values because of his having such an extreme two-suiter.

West, a smart player in many respects, realized, after laying down the spade K, and inspecting the dummy, that when North opened such a hand he probably made South think he had one ace. West therefore placed his partner with the topper in either clubs or diamonds. But which one? He couldn't tell, though he studied the ceiling, examined his finger nails, looked out of the window and implored the fates to tell him. Getting no inspiration from these sources, he decided that, his own holding being better in diamonds than clubs, he should lead the diamond 9. He did, so South made his contract, discarding all of his club losers on diamonds.

It didn't occur to West to take careful note of his partner's card on the spade K lead. It was the 2, imploring West to shift to the lower-ranking side suit, clubs. If East had wanted a diamond lead to the second trick, he would have played the 10.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If North had bid spades, South both red suits and the contract is 6. No Trumps, how can West's lead of the heart 4 tell South how to make his contract?

The first information bureau in a railway depot was established April 6, 1882, in the Broad street station in Philadelphia.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

N A Z T G Q E O V Z N Y - X E K G R N A E N
L Z I G M X E V Y H Z Q N Q J Z : M Y N
N A E N E L Y T E M ' R B G M X — O Y M -
C Q Z H Z.

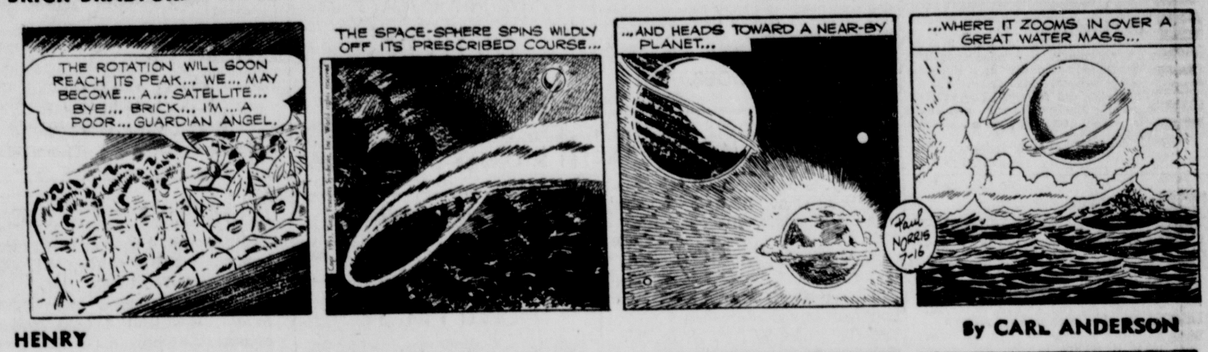

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THESE ARE CALLED THE PIOUS FRAUDS OF FRIENDSHIP—FIELDING.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

N A Z T G Q E O V Z N Y - X E K G R N A E N
L Z I G M X E V Y H Z Q N Q J Z ; M Y N
N A E N E L Y T E M ' R B G M X — O Y M -
C Q Z H Z.

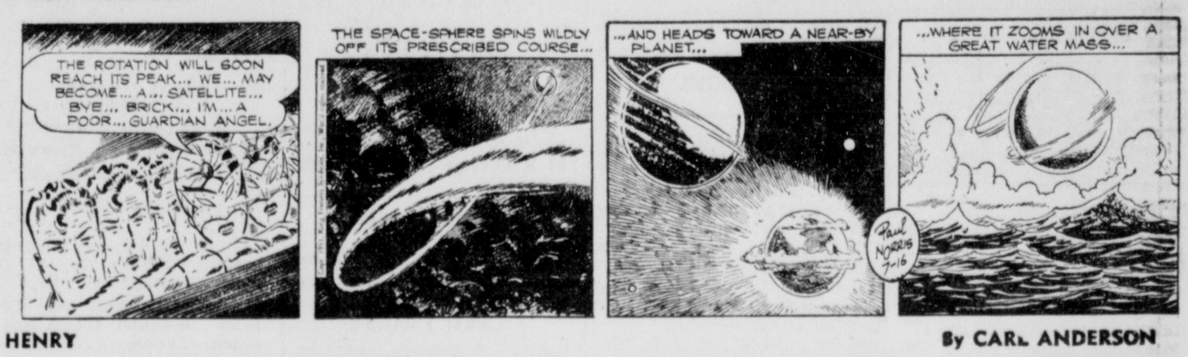

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THESE ARE CALLED THE PIOUS FRAUDS OF FRIENDSHIP—FIELDING.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their sympathy and kindness in our bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Thomas Earl Hobrock. The lovely flowers and cars loaned for the funeral were greatly appreciated.

MRS. ALICE HOBROCK and SONS

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my Mother, Susie A. O'Neal, who passed away 7 years ago today, July 16th, 1946.

The call was sudden the shock severe,
I little thought such grief was near;
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
God gave me strength to face it.
And gave me courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose her
No one will ever know.

Sadly missed by her son and daughter-in-law: MR. & MRS. ELMER O'NEAL

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their sympathy and kindness in our bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Thomas Earl Hobrock. The lovely flowers and cars loaned for the funeral were greatly appreciated.

MRS. ALICE HOBROCK and SONS

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my Mother, Susie A. O'Neal, who passed away 7 years ago today, July 16th, 1946.
The call was sudden the shock severe,
I little thought such grief was near;
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
God gave me strength to face it,
And gave me courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose her
No one will ever know.
Sadly missed by her son and daughter-in-law: MR. & MRS. ELMER O'NEAL

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, July 15 (INS)—The passing show—

Lt. Jazwinski, the second Polish Air Force pilot to fly the coop with a MIG-15, has provided the U. S. Air Force with much valuable information about the operation of satellite air defenses—which would be the first to oppose our intercontinental bombers in any retaliatory raid.

He has partially knocked in the head the confidence of certain air planners in the invulnerability of the B-36 and the B-47 at extreme altitudes. Red Air Force officers have told Polish fliers to expect the B-36, for example, to come in at between 45,000 and 50,000 feet.

"Is the Polish Air Force equipped to intercept at such heights?" Jazwinski was asked through an interpreter.

"Oh, yes," he replied. The MIG-15, he said, can function well five or ten thousand feet higher than that.

The Russians have given the satellites only fighters. Asked why, Jazwinski shrugged and said, "If they gave us bombers, particularly bombers with any range, we'd all fly to Idlewild and seek asylum." The only Red Air Force bomber he ever saw, he said, was a twin-jet attack bomber, the IL-28. Heavy stuff is kept home.

We're a growing nation not the decadent old tosspot the Russkies say we are. The Population Reference Bureau, Inc., an educational organization, announes:

We get a new citizen (net) every 13 seconds, or nearly 300 an hour, 2,000,000 a year. By the year 2000, the U. S. population will be over the 200,000,000 mark.

We're using up our resources at a livelier clip than we are gaining in population. We're mining two and a half times more bituminous coal than we did 50 years ago, three times more copper, three and a half times more iron ore, four times more zinc, 26 times more natural gas and 30 times more crude oil.

The bureau warns that if our dreamers succeed, and the earth's 2,500,000,000 people come to enjoy a standard of living parallel to that of the U. S., the earth's resources would be burned up six times faster. The long range problem, as the bureau sees it, is to devise new ways and means of recovering resources and trapping solar energy, and of finding new uses for old resources.

That latter field would seem to be limitless. Only a few years ago the only use we had for uranium was in coloring gaudy dishware.

In all the recent upheavals in Russia there has never been a mention of the liquidation or demotion of a military man.

Could the Red army be running the show?

Tired of that old body? There's a good-natured Irishman in New York's Radio City—name of H. J. Reilly — who can do something about it. And not with a knife, but with baths, massages, planned exercises, high-pressure hoses and a diet plan.

Reilly recently showed us medical and photographic proof of a 4-week change in a man in his 40's; he lost 18 pounds; 5½ inches around the waist, 4½ inches around the hips, increased his chest expansion 3½ inches and gained three quarters of an inch in height.

His files show one case of a gain in height of three and three quarters inches and phenomenal changes in specific measurements.

It's a place where you might wind up in the next steam closet with Bob Hope, Eddie Rickenbacker, Phil Baker or, if you're lucky and of the proper sex, Mimi Benzell.

Judge To Decide Suit Involving Bank Account

Matter Is Taken Under Advisement

An equity suit brought by a brother against his sister over a joint bank account held by the woman and her father, now deceased, was taken under advisement yesterday by Associate Judge George Henderson after he heard testimony from about eight witnesses in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Testimony was presented in the case of Norval E. Pagenhardt, formerly of Westernport, against his sister, Miss Lyda S. Pagenhardt, of Keyser.

The facts revealed the father of the two, Edgar S. Pagenhardt of Westernport, had an account in a Westernport bank for many years before his death.

Seeks His Share

The father died August 15, 1952, and Miss Pagenhardt was made administratrix of the estate.

The son declares that the joint bank account should be included in the estate that will be divided between the two of them.

The amount of money involved is $3,730.15. Actually, testimony showed there is $3,230.15 in the account as Miss Pagenhardt withdrew $500.

Claims Deposit

The plaintiff, under cross examination yesterday, testified he had made a deposit for his ailing father in May 1952 while on a two-week visit with him.

The defendant's attorneys produced the bank book and after examination it was shown no deposit had been made in the account since 1948.

The defendant's counsel, Stephen R. Pagenhardt, of Oakland, and William J. Gunter and William H. Geppert, this city, contend Miss Pagenhardt is due the money under the survivor's account law.

Attorney for the plaintiff is Horace P. Whitworth Jr. of Westernport.

West Side Playlot Plans Weekly Dances

Weekly square dances will be held on Thursday nights at the West Side Playground, beginning today at 7:30 p. m. Dancing will be for pre-teenagers until 9 p. m., after which it will be for teenagers and adults.

Joe Gallen will be the figure caller and a cake walk will be featured tonight. Refreshments will be sold by the playground association.

A pet show is scheduled for Friday at 7:30 p. m. Rules call for all pets to be either caged or on leashes. Films are shown each Monday evening at the playfield and the Baton Club meets each Tuesday with Jean Haenftling in charge.

Winners of a recent hat show at the playlot were Margaret Ellen Filler, largest; Patty Sheehe, funniest; Elizabeth Birmingham, most unusual; Mike McKenzie, most original, and Connie Washington, most beautiful. Prizes were awarded the winners and favors were given to all contestants.

WAC Recruiter To Visit Recruit Office

Sgt. Mary Glennon, WAC recruiter of Army-Air Force Recruiting Station, Baltimore, will be at the local Army and Air Force Recruiting office in the Post Office Building today to interview women interested in joining the service.

Sgt. Glennon was formerly stationed at the local recruiting office before being transferred to Baltimore recently.

Allegheny Airlines Buys Two Airplanes

Allegheny Airlines has purchased two more DC-3 type aircraft for the company's services in the Middle Atlantic Area, Leslie O. Barnes, president of the company, stated yesterday.

Allegheny's traffic has increased steadily during the last six months and more recently has set new company records.

The new aircraft will be modified to conform with the requirements for local air services and Allegheny's operational standards.

Although various makes of aircraft are under consideration for local air services the dependable DC-3 is still the most practicable and efficient airplane for short haul operations.

Allegheny's fleet numbers 14 aircraft. The company may, however, release one airplane used substantially for charter flights.

Auvil Improving But On Critical List

James Auvil, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Auvil, of near Parsons, was reported improved but still on the critical list at Tucker County Hospital where he was admitted Saturday following an auto accident.

Police said Auvil, a passenger in a car driven by Drain Poling, St. George, W. Va., was hurt when the car failed to negotiate a curve on W. Va. Route 72 and overturned. Poling and another occupant of the car, Mrs. Cecelia Delaney, Parsons, were slightly hurt.

On Vacation

Capt. and Mrs. Daniel K. Biggs, commanders of the local Salvation Army Citadel, and family left yesterday for a ten-day vacation trip to Ocean City. During their absence, Major and Mrs. William Carter, retired SA officers from Texas, will be in charge of the citadel. Major and Mrs. Carter have been doing special work at the divisional headquarters in Baltimore.

Aircrafts, Railroads Take Spotlight In Stock Market

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Trader attention was fairly well localized in aircrafts and railroads today in a moderately advancing stock market.

Overall the pace of trading was slow. That detracted from the fact that the rise came after four straight declines.

The focal point was Douglas Aircraft. It gained 2 points yesterday and was ahead from the start today. The company disclosed earnings in the six months ended May 31 equal to $8.36 a share as against $3.65 a year ago.

Then just before the close directors declared a quarterly dividend of $1 as against 75 cents previously paid and an extra of $1.50 as against 75 cents previously.

The stock got as high as 66 and closed at 65⅝ up 3⅛. Several other aircrafts jumped ahead and closed with good gains. Among them were Boeing, Republic Aviation, Solar Aircraft, and United Aircraft.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 20 cents (the same amount it lost yesterday) and closed at $107.30. The industrial component gained 30 cents, the railroad gained 40 cents, while the utilities lost 20 cents.

The list narrowed down to 1,025 individual issues which contained 470 gainers and 279 losers with 4 new highs and 26 new lows recorded. Volume, which was the disappointing thing to bullish minded traders, came to only 840,000 shares, one of the slowest days of the year. Yesterday's business amounted to 1,030,000 shares.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, July 15 (INS)—The passing show—

Lt. Jazwinski, the second Polish Air Force pilot to fly the coop with a MIG-15, has provided the U. S. Air Force with much valuable information about the operation of satellite air defenses—which would be the first to oppose our intercontinental bombers in any retaliatory raid.

He has partially knocked in the head the confidence of certain air planners in the invulnerability of the B-36 and the B-47 at extreme altitudes. Red Air Force officers have told Polish fliers to expect the B-36, for example, to come in at between 45,000 and 50,000 feet.

"Is the Polish Air Force equipped to intercept at such heights?" Jazwinski was asked through an interpreter.

"Oh, yes," he replied. The MIG-15, he said, can function well five or ten thousand feet higher than that.

The Russians have given the satellites only fighters. Asked why, Jazwinski shrugged and said, "If they gave us bombers, particularly bombers with any range, we'd all fly to Idlewild and seek asylum." The only Red Air Force bomber he ever saw, he said, was a twin-jet attack bomber, the IL-28. Heavy stuff is kept home.

We're a growing nation not the decadent old tosspot the Russkies say we are. The Population Reference Bureau, Inc., an educational organization, announes:

We're growing in population faster than India, of all places.

We get a new citizen (net) every 13 seconds, or nearly 300 an hour, 2,000,000 a year. By the year 2000, the U. S. population will be over the 200,000,000 mark.

We're using up our resources at a livelier clip than we are gaining in population. We're mining two and a half times more bituminous coal than we did 50 years ago, three times more copper, three and a half times more iron ore, four times more zinc, 26 times more natural gas and 30 times more crude oil.

The bureau warns that if our dreamers succeed, and the earth's 2,500,000,000 people come to enjoy a standard of living parallel to that of the U. S., the earth's resources would be burned up six times faster. The long range problem, as the bureau sees it, is to devise new ways and means of recovering resources and trapping solar energy, and of finding new uses for old resources.

That latter field would seem to be limitless. Only a few years ago the only use we had for uranium was in coloring gaudy dishware.

In all the recent upheavals in Russia there has never been a mention of the liquidation or demotion of a military man.

Could the Red army be running the show?

Tired of that old body? There's a good-natured Irishman in New York's Radio City—name of H. J. Reilly — who can do something about it. And not with a knife, but with baths, massages, planned exercises, high-pressure hoses and a diet plan.

Reilly recently showed us medical and photographic proof of a 4-week change in a man in his 40's; he lost 18 pounds; 5½ inches around the waist, 4½ inches around the hips, increased his chest expansion 3½ inches and gained three quarters of an inch in height.

His files show one case of a gain in height of three and three quarters inches and phenomenal changes in specific measurements.

It's a place where you might wind up in the next steam closet with Bob Hope, Eddie Rickenbacker, Phil Baker or, if you're lucky and of the proper sex, Mimi Benzell.

Judge To Decide Suit Involving Bank Account

Matter Is Taken Under Advisement

An equity suit brought by a brother against his sister over a joint bank account held by the woman and her father, now deceased, was taken under advisement yesterday by Associate Judge George Henderson after he heard testimony from about eight witnesses in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Testimony was presented in the case of Norval E. Pagenhardt, formerly of Westernport, against his sister, Miss Lyda S. Pagenhardt, of Keyser.

The facts revealed the father of the two, Edgar S. Pagenhardt of Westernport, had an account in a Westernport bank for many years before his death.

Seeks His Share

Testimony showed the father several years before his death made the account a joint one with his daughter.

The father died August 15, 1952, and Miss Pagenhardt was made administratrix of the estate.

The son declares that the joint bank account should be included in the estate that will be divided between the two of them.

The amount of money involved is $3,730.15. Actually, testimony showed there is $3,230.15 in the account as Miss Pagenhardt withdrew $500.

Claims Deposit

The plaintiff, under cross examnation yesterday, testified he had made a deposit for his ailing father in May 1952 while on a two-week visit with him.

The defendant's attorneys produced the bank book and after examination it was shown no deposit had been made in the account since 1948.

The defendant's counsel, Stephen R. Pagenhardt, of Oakland, and William J. Gunter and William H. Geppert, this city, contend Miss Pagenhardt is due the money under the survivor's account law.

Attorney for the plaintiff is Horace P. Whitworth Jr. of Westernport.

Allegheny Airlines Buys Two Airplanes

Allegheny Airlines has purchased two more DC-3 type aircraft for the company's services in the Middle Atlantic Area, Leslie O. Barnes, president of the company, stated yesterday.

Allegheny's traffic has increased steadily during the last six months and more recently has set new company records.

The new aircraft will be modified to conform with the requirements for local air services and Allegheny's operational standards.

Although various makes of aircraft are under consideration for local air services the dependable DC-3 is still the most practicable and efficient airplane for short haul operations.

Allegheny's fleet numbers 14 aircraft. The company may, however, release one airplane used substantially for charter flights.

Police said Auvil, a passenger in a car driven by Drain Poling, St. George, W. Va., was hurt when the car failed to negotiate a curve on W. Va. Route 72 and overturned. Poling and another occupant of the car, Mrs. Cecelia Delaney, Parsons, were slightly hurt.

On Vacation

Capt. and Mrs. Daniel K. Biggs, commanders of the local Salvation Army Citadel, and family left yesterday for a ten-day vacation trip to Ocean City. During their absence, Major and Mrs. William Carter, retired SA officers from Texas, will be in charge of the citadel. Major and Mrs. Carter have been doing special work at the divisional headquarters in Baltimore.

Aircrafts, Railroads Take Spotlight In Stock Market

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Trader attention was fairly well localized in aircrafts and railroads today in a moderately advancing stock market.

Overall the pace of trading was slow. That detracted from the fact that the rise came after four straight declines.

The focal point was Douglas Aircraft. It gained 2 points yesterday and was ahead from the start today. The company disclosed earnings in the six months ended May 31 equal to $8.36 a share as against $3.65 a year ago.

Then just before the close directors declared a quarterly dividend of $1 as against 75 cents previously paid and an extra of $1.50 as against 75 cents previously.

The stock got as high as 66 and closed at 65⅝ up 3⅛. Several other aircrafts jumped ahead and closed with good gains. Among them were Boeing, Republic Aviation, Solar Aircraft, and United Aircraft.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 20 cents (the same amount it lost yesterday) and closed at $107.30. The industrial component gained 30 cents, the railroad gained 40 cents, while the utilities lost 20 cents.

The list narrowed down to 1,025 individual issues which contained 470 gainers and 279 losers with 4 new highs and 26 new lows recorded. Volume, which was the disappointing thing to bullish minded traders, came to only 840,000 shares, one of the slowest days of the year. Yesterday's business amounted to 1,030,000 shares.

Towers Open As Forest Fire Danger Mounts

Forester Johnson Urges Caution

Excessively dry weather, which has greatly increased the forest fire danger in Western Maryland, prompted District Forester William H. Johnson to reopen a number of fire lookout towers in the area.

Towers on Dan's Mountain and Town Hill in Allegany County and at Thayerville and Table Rock in Garrett County have been reopened to guard against fires.

W. Va. Blaze

Although no forest fires were reported in Western Maryland yesterday, Johnson said that one was discovered in Morgan County, W. Va., on the opposite shore of the Potomac River from Park Head, just east of Hancock. Unconfirmed reports indicated that the West Virginia blaze burned over about 100 acres.

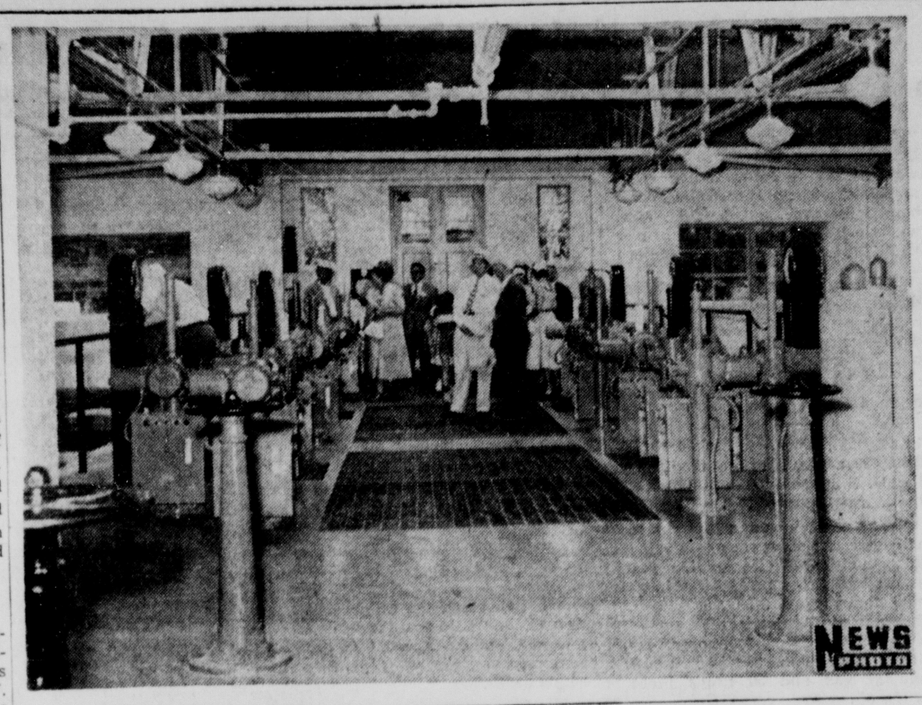

The forester stressed that July normally is not a fire danger month. However, when fires do start at this time of the year they burn down into the ground and are difficult to fight. Trenches must be dug around them to stop the flames from spreading.

Slight Rainfall

Locally, there has been only half an inch of rain in the first 15 days of July. Normal July precipitation is 3.26 inches.

To guard against fires, Johnson urges all citizens to exercise extreme care in burning brush and in seeing that camp fires are extinguished before campers leave.

One of the two fires reported so far in July in Johnson's four-county district was attributed to a campfire, started by small boys. When the fire got too big for them to handle it burned about one-quarter acre of woodland in Washington County. Another one-quarter acre was burned the first of July in Green Ridge Forest.

Fire Destroys Small Williams Road Dwelling

Five Persons Escape Without Injury

A small one-story frame dwelling on Williams Road, about two miles from the city limits, was destroyed by fire about 4:30 a. m. yesterday but the five occupants escaped when they were awakened by the coughing of one of the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Rolston and their three children got out of the smoke-filled house without injury but they saved only the night clothes they were wearing.

Full Of Smoke

Rolston, a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employe, said the place was full of smoke when he was awakened by the coughing of one of the children. He could not tell where the blaze originated.

Firemen from both the Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company and District 16 Volunteer Fire Company responded but could not save the house which already was nearly destroyed by flames when they arrived. They kept the fire from spreading to nearby buildings.

Temporary Lodging

Van Malone, chief of District 16 Volunteer Fire Company at North Branch, said he and about 10 other fire fighters were delayed in getting to the fire because they had to travel into Cumberland on Oldtown Road and then out Williams Road. They could have gotten there much faster if a road from near the old Jane Frazier house on Oldtown Road had been opened to Williams Road by county authorities. The county has ignored numerous requests to open this road, he said.

Chief Melvin DeHaven led about eight or 10 Baltimore Pike volunteers to the fire.

Struck By Old Oaken Cask, Man Asks $35,000 Damages

Joseph Marinelli, 132 Grand Avenue, who charges that he was permanently injured when he was struck by an old oaken cask which was rolled out of the cellar at the home of Dominic Indolfi, 913 Frederick Street, yesterday filed a $35,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against Indolfi.

The declaration, filed for Marinelli by Attorneys Estel C. Kelley, Simon F. Reilly and Peter J. Carpenti, contends that their client was injured October 14, 1951.

Marinelli states he was invited to Indolfi's home on the day that he was injured. His attorneys say that Marinelli had gone there to help Indolfi remove several oaken casks from the cellar of his home.

The plaintiff charges that Indolfi allowed the first of these casks to roll out of the cellar and down an incline so that it struck Marinelli, who was standing at the foot of the incline.

The Grand Avenue man contends that he suffered shock, fracture of his right leg, injury to his right knee, fracture of his left shoulder, fracture of ribs and other injuries. He adds that he was hospitalized for a long time and has been unable to resume his former job as a laborer for the Western Maryland Railway.

Probers To Hear Editors, Lawyers On Civil Rights

HAGERSTOWN, July 15 (AP) — Newspapermen, lawyers, state and Baltimore City law enforcement authorities will be heard July 21 at the second hearing by a Legislative Council committee studying persons held for crime questioning without being charged.

Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington), committee chairman, today listed those invited to be present or have representatives at the hearing in Baltimore.

A. T. Brust, managing editor of The Cumberland News, T. Donald Shires, city editor of the Cumberland Times, and Del. Whitworth (R-Allegany) will be heard on a case which prompted the investigation.

It concerned questioning of a man in connection with the unsolved murder of Mrs. Odessa Frances Meister. The man was held for several days without being charged and finally was released.

Whitworth accused the authorities of "gestapo methods" and urged a study of the laws covering persons held for questioning. At present, the main governing language is they may be held without charge for a "reasonable" length of time. The Court of Appeals in one instance has interpreted this to be 72 hours.

For views on the general subject, Sen. McLaughlin said the Baltimore police commissioner, state police superintendent, and bar associations are being invited to be heard.

KC To Hold Special Meeting Tonight

A special meeting of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the home on North Mechanic Street because of the death of Martin M. Corrigan, a former member.

Woman Faces Jail Term In Child Assault

A Wiley Ford grandmother was lodged in Allegany County Jail yesterday to await a possible three-year maximum jail sentence after being found guilty of assaulting her 15-month-old grandson.

Mrs. Madeline Hannas, about 45, was given a hearing before Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday morning on a charge of assaulting her toddling grandson while she was in an intoxicated condition Tuesday on River Avenue. She pleaded not guilty.

Earlier the woman was given a suspended fine of $5 in Police Court on two misdemeanor charges. The assault hearing followed in Trial Magistrates Court.

Police Lt. Raymond R. Johnston said he went to South End on the complaint that Mrs. Hannas "beat, kicked and twisted around" a child 15-months old. Two months ago, he added, she did the same thing but escaped arrest by going into West Virginia.

The child, it was learned, is the son of the Hannas woman's daughter, Mrs. Blanche Virginia Sulser, also of Wiley Ford.

Although two women and a teenage boy testified Mrs. Hannas struck and kicked the youngster yesterday, she declared:

"I didn't hurt him. I was trying to keep him awake. I couldn't carry groceries (which littered the street) and the baby, too."

Mrs. Hannas said she had only one bottle of beer and "wasn't drunk," but Lt. Johnston described her as being very intoxicated.

Donald Teets, 14, of 1316 Virginia Avenue, told Magistrate Dick he "took a club to her because she wouldn't let the baby alone." After admitting he struck the woman, Dick advised the boy to restrain himself and notify police in the future.

Following testimony, the magistrate remarked:

"I've heard of fathers and mothers losing their tempers and striking a child, but never a grandmother. This is one of the most flagrant cases to come before this court."

Magistrate Dick withheld sentence pending interrogation of the child's mother and further study of the case. Mrs. Hannas admitted that she had served a 90-day jail term in West Virginia.

Filtration Plant Dedicated

B & O's Earnings Up 30 Per Cent Over Last Year

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today reported greatly increased net earnings so far this year, an almost 30 per cent gain.

It also announced it is buying five more self-propelled diesel rail cars to shuttle passengers between Baltimore and Washington.

The board of directors, holding its monthly meeting here, also accepted the resignation of the senior member, Robert Garrett, whose family's fortunes have been tied in with the railroad throughout its history and who has himself been a director for more than 40 years.

Roy B. White, president of the railroad, presented preliminary figures estimating a net income of slightly more than three million dollars in June.

This represented a 200 per cent increase over the net for June of 1952. But in June of 1952 the steel industry was shut down almost the entire month by a strike, choking off the B. & O.'s heavy traffic in coal, iron ore and steel products.

While the figures White reported for the first half of 1952 were not as startling, they still showed important increases.

Revenue was up 13 million above the first half of 1952, largely because of higher freight rates this year. The B. & O. succeeded in turning all of the increase, and a little more too, into profit. Its 3½ million net for the first six months of 1953 was nearly 3 million more than the first half of 1952.

The five new diesel rail cars will supplant steam-pulled trains between Baltimore and Washington. The B. & O. has been operating two of them in the area since late in 1950 and has three more handling commuter traffic at Pittsburgh.

50 Firemen Get Diplomas For Finishing Study Course

Fifty studious city firemen yesterday were awarded diplomas and certificates after completing several months of study in the latest methods of scientific firefighting.

The smoke eaters were congratulated by Robert C. Byrus, director of the University of Maryland Fire Extension Service. Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long handed out diplomas.

Officials of the Fire Department also praised the work of Assistant Chief Robert C. Long, who has been teaching the course at Central Station.

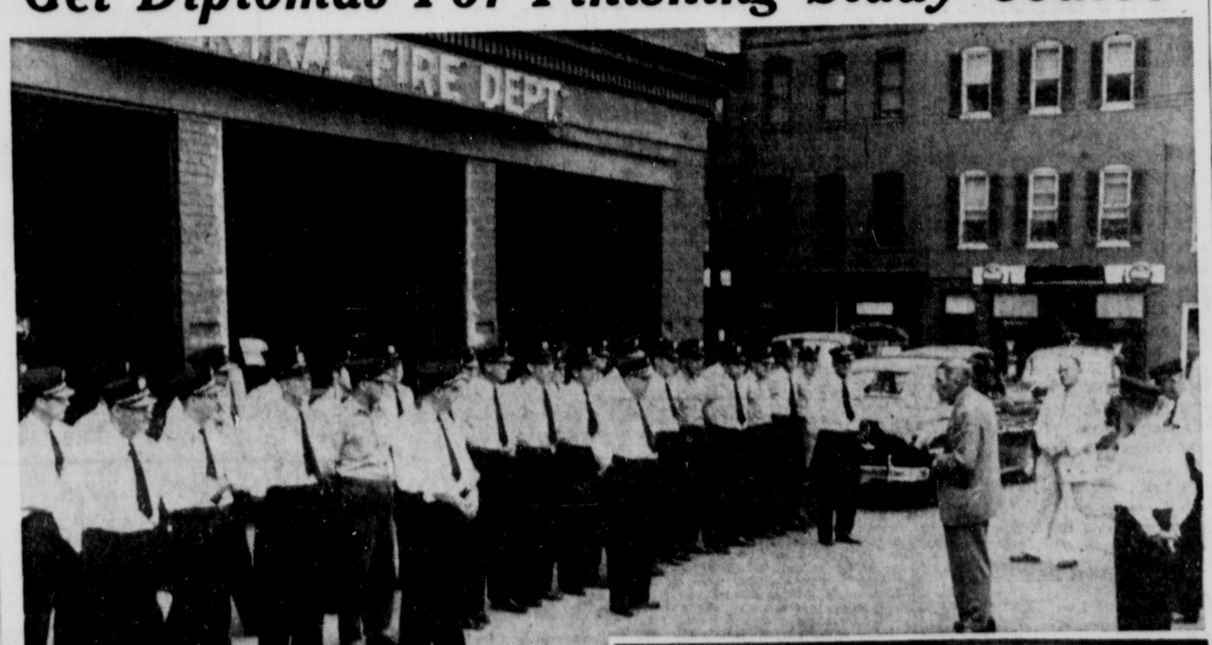

Long, who is in charge of the department's training program, last year led a class through the fireman's basic course designed by the Fire Extension Service.

This year's course was the advanced curriculum, which included everything from fire maps to complicated hydraulics formulas.

In commenting on the complexity of the studies, Byrus told the firemen they've come a long way from the day when firefighting consisted largely of frantic hose-waving and indiscriminate door-chopping.

Forester Johnson Urges Caution

Excessively dry weather, which has greatly increased the forest fire danger in Western Maryland, prompted District Forester William H. Johnson to reopen a number of fire lookout towers in the area.

Towers on Dan's Mountain and Town Hill in Allegany County and at Thayerville and Table Rock in Garrett County have been reopened to guard against fires.

W. Va. Blaze

Although no forest fires were reported in Western Maryland yesterday, Johnson said that one was discovered in Morgan County, W. Va., on the opposite shore of the Potomac River from Park Head, just east of Hancock. Unconfirmed reports indicated that the West Virginia blaze burned over about 100 acres.

The forester stressed that July normally is not a fire danger month. However, when fires do start at this time of the year they burn down into the ground and are difficult to fight. Trenches must be dug around them to stop the flames from spreading.

Slight Rainfall

Locally, there has been only half an inch of rain in the first 15 days of July. Normal July precipitation is 3.26 inches.

To guard against fires, Johnson urges all citizens to exercise extreme care in burning brush and in seeing that camp fires are extinguished before campers leave.

One of the two fires reported so far in July in Johnson's four-county district was attributed to a campfire, started by small boys. When the fire got too big for them to handle it burned about one-quarter acre of woodland in Washington County. Another one-quarter acre was burned the first of July in Green Ridge Forest.

Struck By Old Oaken Cask, Man Asks $35,000 Damages

Joseph Marinelli, 132 Grand Avenue, who charges that he was permanently injured when he was struck by an old oaken cask which was rolled out of the cellar at the home of Dominic Indolfi, 913 Frederick Street, yesterday filed a $35,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against Indolfi.

The declaration, filed for Marinelli by Attorneys Estel C. Kelley, Simon F. Reilly and Peter J. Carpenti, contends that their client was injured October 14, 1951.

Marinelli states he was invited to Indolfi's home on the day that he was injured. His attorneys say that Marinelli had gone there to help Indolfi remove several oaken casks from the cellar of his home.

The plaintiff charges that Indolfi allowed the first of these casks to roll out of the cellar and down an incline so that it struck Marinelli, who was standing at the foot of the incline.

The Grand Avenue man contends that he suffered shock, fracture of his right leg, injury to his right knee, fracture of his left shoulder, fracture of ribs and other injuries. He adds that he was hospitalized for a long time and has been unable to resume his former job as a laborer for the Western Maryland Railway.

Probers To Hear Editors, Lawyers On Civil Rights

HAGERSTOWN, July 15 (AP) — Newspapermen, lawyers, state and Baltimore City law enforcement authorities will be heard July 21 at the second hearing by a Legislative Council committee studying persons held for crime questioning without being charged.

Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington), committee chairman, today listed those invited to be present or have representatives at the hearing in Baltimore.

A. T. Brust, managing editor of The Cumberland News, T. Donald Shires, city editor of the Cumberland Times, and Del. Whitworth (R-Allegany) will be heard on a case which prompted the investigation.

It concerned questioning of a man in connection with the unsolved murder of Mrs. Odessa Frances Meister. The man was held for several days without being charged and finally was released.

Whitworth accused the authorities of "gestapo methods" and urged a study of the laws covering persons held for questioning. At present, the main governing language is they may be held without charge for a "reasonable" length of time. The Court of Appeals in one instance has interpreted this to be 72 hours.

For views on the general subject, Sen. McLaughlin said the Baltimore police commissioner, state police superintendent, and bar associations are being invited to be heard.

Woman Faces Jail Term In Child Assault

A Wiley Ford grandmother was lodged in Allegany County Jail yesterday to await a possible three-year maximum jail sentence after being found guilty of assaulting her 15-month-old grandson.

Mrs. Madeline Hannas, about 45, was given a hearing before Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday morning on a charge of assaulting her toddling grandson while she was in an intoxicated condition Tuesday on River Avenue. She pleaded not guilty.

Earlier the woman was given a suspended fine of $5 in Police Court on two misdemeanor charges. The assault hearing followed in Trial Magistrates Court.

Police Lt. Raymond R. Johnston said he went to South End on the complaint that Mrs. Hannas "beat, kicked and twisted around" a child 15-months old. Two months ago, he added, she did the same thing but escaped arrest by going into West Virginia.

The child, it was learned, is the son of the Hannas woman's daughter, Mrs. Blanche Virginia Sulser, also of Wiley Ford.

Although two women and a teenage boy testified Mrs. Hannas struck and kicked the youngster yesterday, she declared:

"I didn't hurt him. I was trying to keep him awake. I couldn't carry groceries (which littered the street) and the baby, too."

Mrs. Hannas said she had only one bottle of beer and "wasn't drunk," but Lt. Johnston described her as being very intoxicated.

Donald Teets, 14, of 1316 Virginia Avenue, told Magistrate Dick he "took a club to her because she wouldn't let the baby alone." After admitting he struck the woman, Dick advised the boy to restrain himself and notify police in the future.

Following testimony, the magistrate remarked:

"I've heard of fathers and mothers losing their tempers and striking a child, but never a grandmother. This is one of the most flagrant cases to come before this court."

Magistrate Dick withheld sentence pending interrogation of the child's mother and further study of the case. Mrs. Hannas admitted that she had served a 90-day jail term in West Virginia.

Fire Destroys Small Williams Road Dwelling

Five Persons Escape Without Injury

A small one-story frame dwelling on Williams Road, about two miles from the city limits, was destroyed by fire about 4:30 a. m. yesterday but the five occupants escaped when they were awakened by the coughing of one of the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Rolston and their three children got out of the smoke-filled house without injury but they saved only the night clothes they were wearing.

Full Of Smoke

Rolston, a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employe, said the place was full of smoke when he was awakened by the coughing of one of the children. He could not tell where the blaze originated.

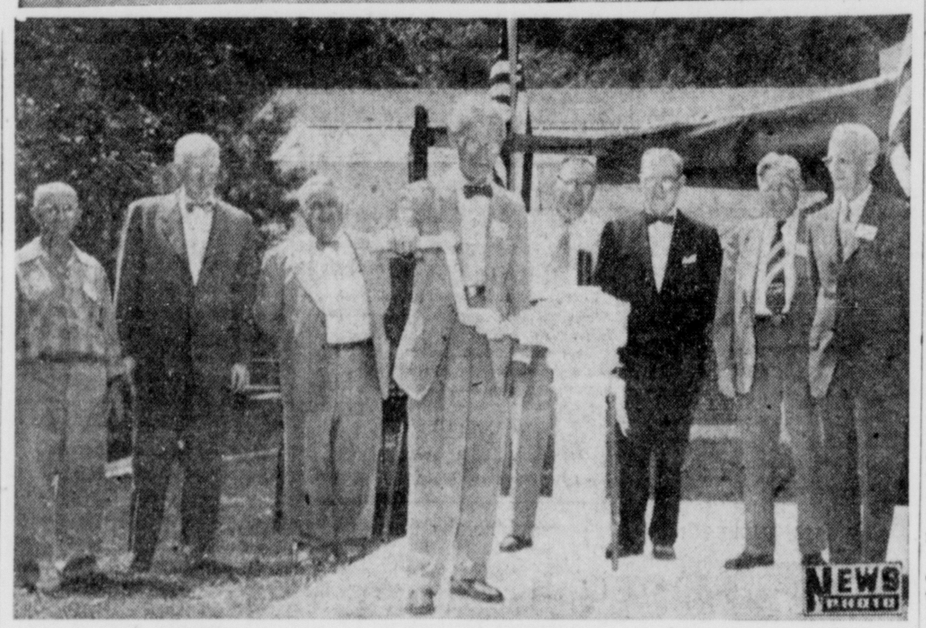

Firemen from both the Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company and District 16 Volunteer Fire Company responded but could not save the house which already was nearly destroyed by flames when they arrived. They kept the fire from spreading to nearby buildings.

Temporary Lodging

Neighbors gave the Rolstons temporary lodging and they planned to occupy a small house near their destroyed home.

Van Malone, chief of District 16 Volunteer Fire Company at North Branch, said he and about 10 other fire fighters were delayed in getting to the fire because they had to travel into Cumberland on Oldtown Road and then out Williams Road. They could have gotten there much faster if a road from near the old Jane Frazier house on Oldtown Road had been opened to Williams Road by county authorities. The county has ignored numerous requests to open this road, he said.

Chief Melvin DeHaven led about eight or 10 Baltimore Pike volunteers to the fire.

Filtration Plant Dedicated

B & O's Earnings Up 30 Per Cent Over Last Year

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today reported greatly increased net earnings so far this year, an almost 30 per cent gain.

It also announced it is buying five more self-propelled diesel rail cars to shuttle passengers between Baltimore and Washington.

The board of directors, holding its monthly meeting here, also accepted the resignation of the senior member, Robert Garrett, whose family's fortunes have been tied in with the railroad throughout its history and who has himself been a director for more than 40 years.

Roy B. White, president of the railroad, presented preliminary figures estimating a net income of slightly more than three million dollars in June.

This represented a 200 per cent increase over the net for June of 1952. But in June of 1952 the steel industry was shut down almost the entire month by a strike, choking off the B. & O.'s heavy traffic in coal, iron ore and steel products.

While the figures White reported for the first half of 1952 were not as startling, they still showed important increases.

Revenue was up 13 million above the first half of 1952, largely because of higher freight rates this year. The B. & O. succeeded in turning all of the increase, and a little more too, into profit. Its 3½ million net for the first six months of 1953 was nearly 3 million more than the first half of 1952.

The five new diesel rail cars will supplant steam-pulled trains between Baltimore and Washington. The B. & O. has been operating two of them in the area since late in 1950 and has three more handling commuter traffic at Pittsburgh.
